Circleville Joins Nation In Memorial Day Tribute

Circleville will join the rest of the nation in commemorating the country's war dead during special Memorial Day services Friday.

The day here will be marked by a parade in the morning, followed by special services at Forest Cemetery for fallen comrades and those who served their country.

Robert Liston Jr., district commander of the American Legion, has been named general chairman and grand marshall of the local ceremonies.

Displaying of American Flags will be the most popular means of emphasizing the day honoring those who have served the nation.

Final tribute will be paid at "Soldiers Glen" with a salvo by the firing squad and the playing of taps by Legion buglers.

First Negro Is Graduated In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Central High School awarded a diploma to a Negro for the first time in an orderly commencement protected by 220 city police and federalized National Guardsmen Tuesday night.

Shortly after the ceremony the soldiersleft the school area.

There were no incidents at the floodlit stadium.

"I'm happy that's all over," said Ernest Green, the lanky 16-year-old Negro who made history. "I'm going to New York to live it up."

Green said a New York hotel restaurant union had invited him to spend a week's vacation there beginning June 12. He said he hopes to enter Michigan State next fall and embark on a law career.

Tuesday night Green sat impassively with 601 other seniors on the football field. As he received a diploma and congratulations from Principal Jess W. Matthews an almost inaudible murmur was heard among the 5,000 spectators.

Green arrived in a taxi and walked unescorted to the meeting point of seniors. Detectives escorted hi mto another taxi after the ceremony.

About 100 policemen took positions throughout the stadium. Some 120 guardsmen occupied the school building and the underside of the vacant stadium wing where they were out of sight.

Youngstown Judge Loses Lawyer Rights

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's Supreme Court today suspended Municipal Judge Frank R. Franko of Youngstown from the practice of law for misconduct.

Wealthy Texan's Cache Is Revealed

An armored car was reported to have made seven trips in carrying the money to the Texas National Bank, where it was piled 5 feet high in an area of 8 by 10 feet in a counting room.

West, a diabetic, died Dec. 18, at the age of 54. An inventory of his estate has not been filed, but unofficial estimates of its value run as high as $100 million.

GE Plant To Lay Off Another 59 Workers

Another 59 persons will be laid off by the local General Electric plant effective after work June 6, it was announced today by E. G. Grigg, local plant manager.

That makes a total of 146 workers — about 20 per cent of the original 750-man work force —to be released since May 3.

Grigg said the lay-off was made necessary due to a comparatively low level of orders and an excessively high inventory.

A total of 15 men and 44 women are involved in the latest of the lay-off orders. On May 3, 87 women were laid off.

Those to be released June 6 will come from both shifts at the plant. Lay-offs are based on plant-wide seniority, Grigg reported. Both shifts will be continued.

THE PLANT MANAGER also stated that as orders increase and inventories decrease employes will be called back as they are needed.

The new lay-off will not affect the $2.8 million expansion program here. Site clearance is nearing completion. Orders for steel have been placed. The general contract and construction is scheduled for late June, Grigg announced.

Actually, Grigg reported, orders at the local plant have shown signs of picking up. However, high inventory of fluorescent lamps has made the lay-off necessary to the healthy economic condition of the company.

The company is attempting to turn the tide with its "Operation Upturn" — which is designed to emphasize the value of its products and the fact that buying now is a good idea, since increasing costs may make prices higher later.

"Operation Upturn", Grigg said, "can be compared to the automobile industry's "You Auto Buy Now" campaign.

GE's program is directed to the customer, he said. Grigg declared, "other companies and industries should get out and sell on the basis of value to the customer. They shouldn't sit and wait for things to go up. Things will go up sooner or later.

"The companies and employes who have teamed to give better quality and better service will certainly be favored."

Coty Calls Gen. DeGaulle For Meeting

New Premier Due After Pflimlin Resigns Position

PARIS (AP) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle sped to Paris today after being called by French President Rene Coty.

The word that De Gaulle was going to see the President normally would mean that he would be asked to form a new government.

The call from Coty to De Gaulle came only minutes after the conclusion of a meeting between the President and leaders of three big political parties.

Socialist Guy Mollet, right-wing independent Antoine Pinay and Pierre-Henri Teitgen of the Catholic Popular Republican Movement had been closeted with the President for over an hour.

THE THREE French speaking political bigwigs had been called in by Coty presumably to get agreement on a successor to Premier Pierre Pflimlin, who resigned in the early morning hours at the height of the rebellion-induced political confusion in France.

De Gaulle announced Tuesday he had already started work to form a government. But he appeared to face formidable opposition in the National Assembly, which must approve his appointment to the premiership.

The National Assembly Tuesday night gave Pflimlin a thumping vote of approval on a constitutional reform bill, indicating that the deputies had no stomach for De Gaulle. Pflimlin quit because he lost some of his moderate supporters in the assembly.

At the same time DeGaulle was speeding from his country mansion toward Paris, about 30,000 Frenchmen started a demonstration against the general.

The demonstration, with the crowds massed four blocks along the route was orderly but noisy. Communists, Socialist and Christian Trade Unionists had called for the demonstrations.

No police were in sight.

The police are controlled by Socialist Jules Moch, who gave tacit approval for the demonstration despite a government ban on all mass meetings.

Pflimlin said the defection of the independents had weakened the government at a crucial moment and he could not go on. The President refused to let him step aside until a new premier was

2 Big Bodies Merge In Colorful Rites

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In a pouring rain, two colorfully garbed processions of Presbyterians met today at a Pittsburgh street corner and joined hands to form one church.

... Praise God from whom all blessings flow," they sang as the downpour drenched converging lines of representatives of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. reunited two denominations torn apart in a dimly remembered quarrel of long ago.

"We extend the right hand of fellowship and join hands and hearts in the merging of our two great churches," said the Rev. Dr. Harold R. Martin, moderator of the U.S.A. Church.

The two groups are forming "the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A." which became the fourth largest body in American Protestantism.

The ceremonies will be climaxed by sharing of the Lord's Supper.

Joining forces are the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., with a combined membership of more than three million.

"A happy and historic occasion," says the Rev. Dr. Robert N. Montgomery, president of Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, and moderator of the U.P. church.

IT MARKS the end of a breakup that started more than 200 years ago in Scotland, and has erupted in various cleavages since then.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., popularly referred to as Northern Presbyterians, also includes some Southern churches, as well as congregations throughout the rest of the nation—a total of 8,489.

The United Presbyterians, strongest in Ohio and Pennsylvania, have 973 congregations. Together, the merged denominations include 9,462 churches.

Dr. Montgomery said "we shall hope and pray" that the quest for unity "may in the lifetime of many of us bring about our union with our fellow Presbyterians in the Southern church."

There are eight other relatively small Presbyterian bodies.

Farm Tractor Mishap Fatal to Caledonian

MARION (AP)—Robert E. Key, 30, of nearby Caledonia, was fatally injured Tuesday when a farm tractor overturned on him as he used it to try to pull loose a stuck truck.

New Navy 'Talos' Ship Is Chartered

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Navy commissioned its first "Talos" missile warship today, a cruiser that carries an atomic weapon capable of destroying unseen planes or surface vessels more than 65 miles away.

The cruiser Galveston, freshly painted and its brass shining, officially went into service 13 years after it was launched. She was launched in 1945 but was placed in reserve without being commissioned.

Conversion to a missile cruiser began 20 months ago. It will be completed by September for a shakedown cruise.

4-Cent Letter Postage Set For Aug. 1

The legislation also carried pay increases for some 520,000 postal workers and foreshadows probable pay hikes for another million workers in the government's civil service.

Effective Aug. 1, the price of a letter stamp will rise 1 cent from the 3 cents in effect since 1932. On that same date, air mail will go up from 6 cents to 7 and post cards from 2 to 3 cents.

Higher rates for newspapers, magazines and advertising matter will become effective next Jan. 1.

Rates on the advertising portion of newspapers and magazines will rise 60 per cent in three annual jumps. On the editorial portion of these publications, the rate will go up 30 per cent, also in three annual stages.

For advertising matter, the rate will increase 66 2-3 per cent in two annual steps.

Two Injured On Route 188

Two men were injured when their car went out of control at 3:15 p.m. yesterday on Route 188 about four miles east of Circleville.

Admitted to Berger Hospital were John Wolfe, 18, of 379 Weldon Ave., and Fred Wolfe, 36, of 316 Long Ave.

John Wolfe, driver of the car, suffered cuts on the mouth and lips, a possible nose fracture, abrasions of the right arm, elbow and right leg.

Fred Wolfe, who was teaching John to drive, suffered multiple face cuts, multiple rib fractures, possible chest injuries and head, thigh and knee injuries. They are reported in "fairly good" condition today in Berger Hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said the Wolfe car was headed east on Route 188. The auto, in the inexperienced hands of the younger Wolfe, went out of control on the sharp curve and upset.

Varying Testimony Marks Local Vote-Buying Quiz

Further investigations will be conducted by the Pickaway County Board of Elections into apparent election irregularities at the May 6 primary here.

That was the decision of the board following last night's hearing on the matter in Comcom Pleas Court.

There was testimony by two witnesses that they saw money change hands near Precinct 4-D on election day; that perhaps some of the persons voting there were not residents of the precinct, and that at least one person who voted was not yet 21.

THIRTEEN witnesses testified. One, Barbara Wolfe, refused to testify on the grounds her testimony might tend to incriminate her.

Prize witnesses were James I. Smith III, Herald reporter who first broke the story, and Miss Dumm, an official of Precinct 4-D, where alleged vote buying took place.

Forty persons attended the hearing. A transcript was taken of the testmony. It, along with the results of further board probes, will be sent to Secretary of State Ted Brown, who ordered the special investigation.

Secretary Brown was sent by an anonymous person a copy of Smith's story in The Circleville Herald, in which Smith said he saw votes being bought in Precinct 4-D. Brown immediately ordered the probe.

Smith stated he saw Leslie Brown, 371 Logan St., give money and two small cards to Ralph Dollison, Lowery Lane, and then watched Dollison go into the poll.

Both Brown nd Dollison claimed they met behind an automobile parked in an alley across the street from the Walnut Street School, where voting was under way, but that no money changed hands.

MISS DUMM said she looked out a window while working at the precinct and saw Brown pass what she believed to be money to a man who had just voted.

Miss Dumm contradicted several of the other precinct workers. She testified that they discussed the problem of vote buying at the precinct. She said, "We were all disgusted. It was so plain we couldn't miss it."

Presiding judge Mrs. Rosalie Turner, 373 Walnut St., said she knew of nothing irregular going on at the precinct. Miss Dumm, however, stated that Mrs. Turner ordered the school janitor to wire the sides of the voting booths closed. She said voters were passing things back and forth in the booth and talking with each other inside the booths.

She also stated that of the 142 votes cast in the election "probably one-half didn't actually have the residence they gave".

Nearly every precinct official stated that several persons came to vote but didn't know to what party their candidate belonged.

Another precinct judge, Mrs. Lillie E. Dumm, said she handed out the ballots. Under questioning of Prosecutor Davis she testified several persons told her "they wanted to vote for Mace" (Harley Mace, defeated incumbent county commissioner) "but didn't know what ballot he was on. Most had sample ballots in their hand," she stated.

FIRST witness called to testify was Rance Wolfe, 379 Weldon Ave. Wolfe was subpoenaed in regards to the voting of a minor, Barbara Wolfe. He stated he didn't know the age of his niece, Barbara, although he lives across the street from her.

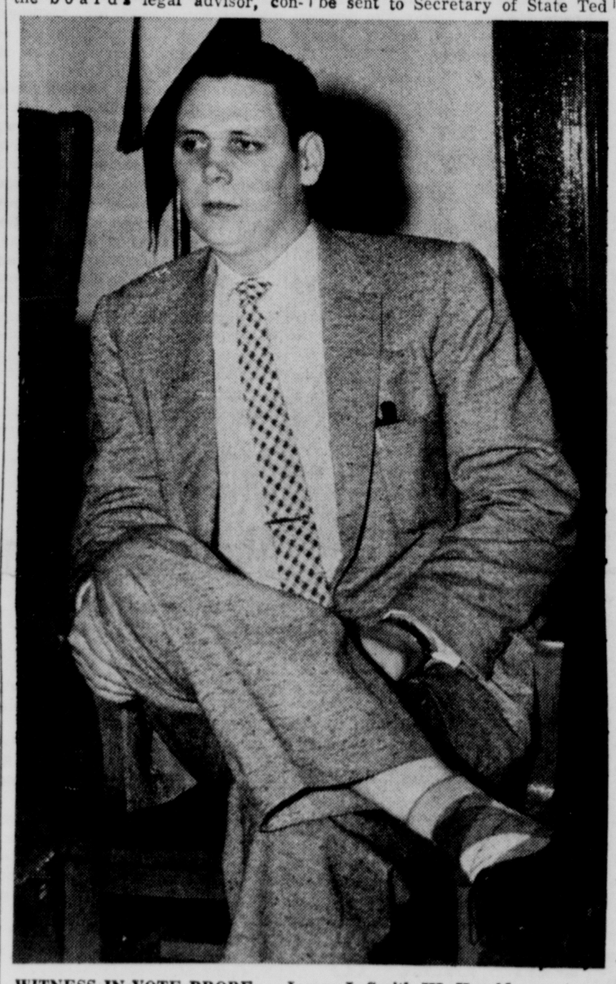

Wolfe said he walked into the precinct with her. He concluded by stating he had no conversation with Mrs. Clarence Robison, 375 Weldon Ave., who originally brought the matter to the board's attention.

After Barbara Wolfe's refusal to testify, Mrs. Robison took the stand. She said she was driving older voters to the polls because of the rain. According to Mrs. Robison, "it was all over the street (Weldon Ave.) that Rance had voted his 19-year-old niece." She also said Wolfe had not asked her to vote the girl.

Smith was the next witness and repeated his story published by The Circleville Herald on May 8 of witnessing vote buying. He named Dollison as the vote seller and Brown as the buyer. He also identified the cards and sample ballot passed between Brown and Dollison as those of Hewitt Cromley (defeated Democratic candidate for Pickaway County Commissioner).

Mrs. James I. Smith appeared

Vanguard Rocket Fires OK, But Fails To Go into Orbit

Fired aloft shortly before midnight by the Vanguard rocket, the 20-inch ball flew 2,000 miles out into space, then plunged back to earth.

Five hours of baffling silence followed the launching before Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard, announced that the 21½-pound sphere did not go into orbit.

The engines of the three-stage Vanguard all fired as expected, Hagen said.

But the satellite was not boosted into a horizontal direction necessary to place it in orbit. Instead, it flew out in a wide arc, then fell back into the earth's atmosphere.

It was the fourth failure in five tries since the Vanguard rocket first was fired as a complete three-stage vehicle.

THE FIRST Vanguard exploded four feet off its launching pad.

The second blew apart 20,000 feet off the ground. The third launched Vanguard I, the 3½-pound satellite now in orbit. The fourth fell into the sea.

By contrast, the Army has a record of two successes in three tries with its Jupiter-C satellite launching rocket which hurled the two Explorers into orbit.

Tuesday night's Vanguard, small in size by Soviet standards but big in scientific importance, made an impressive departure from earth in the nose of the 72-foot rocket.

Its mission was to determine how ultraviolet radiation from the sun snarls radio communication on earth and to find out if these same rays play a part in formation of hurricanes, tornadoes and thunderstorms.

Its findings were to be a part of this country's contribution to world knowledge in the International Geophysical Year.

Housed in the 20-inch ball were instruments designed to measure ultraviolet rays from the sun, especially during the gigantic electrical eruptions in the sun's atmosphere known as solar flares.

One Decoration Allowed at Forest

In view of Memorial Day Friday, local citizens are reminded that only one decoration per grave will be permitted at Forest Cemetery.

The ruling was made after careful study by the cemetery board of trustees. Officials said the move was necessary because caretakers do not have the time to remove and replace numerous decorations while cutting grass and providing other maintenance.

The rule will be in effect the year around trustees said.

Alaska Statehood Hangs in Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska's hope for statehood this year hinged today on two major House test votes, either of which could kill its chances.

The first test was scheduled on a preferential motion by Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex) to send a statehood bill back to the House Insular Affairs Committee.

If unsuccessful in this, opponents then could demand a roll-call vote on the action by which the House voted tentatively Tuesday, 144-107, to kill the bill by striking out its enacting clause.

Either motion, if adopted, has the effect of sidetracking any further consideration of the bill.

2 Big Bodies Merge In Colorful Rites

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In a pouring rain, two colorfully garbed processions of Presbyterians met today at a Pittsburgh street corner and joined hands to form one church.

... Praise God from whom all blessings flow," they sang as the downpour drenched converging lines of representatives of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. reunited two denominations torn apart in a dimly remembered quarrel of long ago.

"We extend the right hand of fellowship and join hands and hearts in the merging of our two great churches," said the Rev. Dr. Harold R. Martin, moderator of the U.S.A. Church.

The two groups are forming "the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A." which became the fourth largest body in American Protestantism.

The ceremonies will be climaxed by sharing of the Lord's Supper.

Joining forces are the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., with a combined membership of more than three million.

"A happy and historic occasion," says the Rev. Dr. Robert N. Montgomery, president of Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, and moderator of the U.P. church.

IT MARKS the end of a breakup that started more than 200 years ago in Scotland, and has erupted in various cleavages since then.

The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., popularly referred to as Northern Presbyterians, also includes some Southern churches, as well as congregations throughout the rest of the nation—a total of 8,489.

The United Presbyterians, strongest in Ohio and Pennsylvania, have 973 congregations. Together, the merged denominations include 9,462 churches.

Dr. Montgomery said "we shall hope and pray" that the quest for unity "may in the lifetime of many of us bring about our union with our fellow Presbyterians in the Southern church."

There are eight other relatively small Presbyterian bodies.

Farm Tractor Mishap Fatal to Caledonian

MARION (AP)—Robert E. Key, 30, of nearby Caledonia, was fatally injured Tuesday when a farm tractor overturned on him as he used it to try to pull loose a stuck truck.

The State Highway Patrol reported that the accident happened on a farm lane a half-mile south of U.S. 30S, east of here.

New Navy 'Talos' Ship Is Chartered

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Navy commissioned its first "Talos" missile warship today, a cruiser that carries an atomic weapon capable of destroying unseen planes or surface vessels more than 65 miles away.

The cruiser Galveston, freshly painted and its brass shining, officially went into service 13 years after it was launched. She was launched in 1945 but was placed in reserve without being commissioned.

Conversion to a missile cruiser began 20 months ago. It will be completed by September for a shakedown cruise.

4-Cent Letter Postage Set For Aug. 1

The legislation also carried pay increases for some 520,000 postal workers and foreshadows probable pay hikes for another million workers in the government's civil service.

Effective Aug. 1, the price of a letter stamp will rise 1 cent from the 3 cents in effect since 1932. On that same date, air mail will go up from 6 cents to 7 and post cards from 2 to 3 cents.

Higher rates for newspapers, magazines and advertising matter will become effective next Jan. 1.

Rates on the advertising portion of newspapers and magazines will rise 60 per cent in three annual jumps. On the editorial portion of these publications, the rate will go up 30 per cent, also in three annual stages.

For advertising matter, the rate will increase 66 2-3 per cent in two annual steps.

Two Injured On Route 188

Two men were injured when their car went out of control at 3:15 p.m. yesterday on Route 188 about four miles east of Circleville.

Admitted to Berger Hospital were John Wolfe, 18, of 379 Weldon Ave., and Fred Wolfe, 36, of 316 Long Ave.

John Wolfe, driver of the car, suffered cuts on the mouth and lips, a possible nose fracture, abrasions of the right arm, elbow and right leg.

Fred Wolfe, who was teaching John to drive, suffered multiple face cuts, multiple rib fractures, possible chest injuries and head, thigh and knee injuries. They are reported in "fairly good" condition today in Berger Hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said the Wolfe car was headed east on Route 188. The auto, in the inexperienced hands of the younger Wolfe, went out of control on the sharp curve and upset.

Varying Testimony Marks Local Vote-Buying Quiz

Further investigations will be conducted by the Pickaway County Board of Elections into apparent election irregularities at the May 6 primary here.

That was the decision of the board following last night's hearing on the matter in Comcom Pleas Court.

There was testimony by two witnesses that they saw money change hands near Precinct 4-D on election day; that perhaps some of the persons voting there were not residents of the precinct, and that at least one person who voted was not yet 21.

Prize witnesses were James I. Smith III, Herald reporter who first broke the story, and Miss Dumm, an official of Precinct 4-D, where alleged vote buying took place.

Forty persons attended the hearing. A transcript was taken of the testmony. It, along with the results of further board probes, will be sent to Secretary of State Ted Brown, who ordered the special investigation.

Secretary Brown was sent by an anonymous person a copy of Smith's story in The Circleville Herald, in which Smith said he saw votes being bought in Precinct 4-D. Brown immediately ordered the probe.

Smith stated he saw Leslie Brown, 371 Logan St., give money and two small cards to Ralph Dollison, Lowery Lane, and then watched Dollison go into the poll.

Both Brown nd Dollison claimed they met behind an automobile parked in an alley across the street from the Walnut Street School, where voting was under way, but that no money changed hands.

MISS DUMM said she looked out a window while working at the precinct and saw Brown pass what she believed to be money to a man who had just voted.

Miss Dumm contradicted several of the other precinct workers. She testified that they discussed the problem of vote buying at the precinct. She said, "We were all disgusted. It was so plain we couldn't miss it."

Presiding judge Mrs. Rosalie Turner, 373 Walnut St., said she knew of nothing irregular going on at the precinct. Miss Dumm, however, stated that Mrs. Turner ordered the school janitor to wire the sides of the voting booths closed. She said voters were passing things back and forth in the booth and talking with each other inside the booths.

She also stated that of the 142 votes cast in the election "probably one-half didn't actually have the residence they gave".

Nearly every precinct official stated that several persons came to vote but didn't know to what party their candidate belonged.

Another precinct judge, Mrs. Lillie E. Dumm, said she handed out the ballots. Under questioning of Prosecutor Davis she testified several persons told her "they wanted to vote for Mace" (Harley Mace, defeated incumbent county commissioner) "but didn't know what ballot he was on. Most had sample ballots in their hand," she stated.

FIRST witness called to testify was Rance Wolfe, 379 Weldon Ave. Wolfe was subpoenaed in regards to the voting of a minor, Barbara Wolfe. He stated he didn't know the age of his niece, Barbara, although he lives across the street from her.

Wolfe said he walked into the precinct with her. He concluded by stating he had no conversation with Mrs. Clarence Robison, 375 Weldon Ave., who originally brought the matter to the board's attention.

After Barbara Wolfe's refusal to testify, Mrs. Robison took the stand. She said she was driving older voters to the polls because of the rain. According to Mrs. Robison, "it was all over the street (Weldon Ave.) that Rance had voted his 19-year-old niece." She also said Wolfe had not asked her to vote the girl.

Smith was the next witness and repeated his story published by The Circleville Herald on May 8 of witnessing vote buying. He named Dollison as the vote seller and Brown as the buyer. He also identified the cards and sample ballot passed between Brown and Dollison as those of Hewitt Cromley (defeated Democratic candidate for Pickaway County Commissioner).

Vanguard Rocket Fires OK, But Fails To Go into Orbit

Fired aloft shortly before midnight by the Vanguard rocket, the 20-inch ball flew 2,000 miles out into space, then plunged back to earth.

Five hours of baffling silence followed the launching before Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard, announced that the 21½-pound sphere did not go into orbit.

The engines of the three-stage Vanguard all fired as expected, Hagen said.

But the satellite was not boosted into a horizontal direction necessary to place it in orbit. Instead, it flew out in a wide arc, then fell back into the earth's atmosphere.

It was the fourth failure in five tries since the Vanguard rocket first was fired as a complete three-stage vehicle.

THE FIRST Vanguard exploded four feet off its launching pad.

The second blew apart 20,000 feet off the ground. The third launched Vanguard I, the 3½-pound satellite now in orbit. The fourth fell into the sea.

By contrast, the Army has a record of two successes in three tries with its Jupiter-C satellite launching rocket which hurled the two Explorers into orbit.

Tuesday night's Vanguard, small in size by Soviet standards but big in scientific importance, made an impressive departure from earth in the nose of the 72-foot rocket.

Its mission was to determine how ultraviolet radiation from the sun snarls radio communication on earth and to find out if these same rays play a part in formation of hurricanes, tornadoes and thunderstorms.

Its findings were to be a part of this country's contribution to world knowledge in the International Geophysical Year.

One Decoration Allowed at Forest

In view of Memorial Day Friday, local citizens are reminded that only one decoration per grave will be permitted at Forest Cemetery.

The ruling was made after careful study by the cemetery board of trustees. Officials said the move was necessary because caretakers do not have the time to remove and replace numerous decorations while cutting grass and providing other maintenance.

The rule will be in effect the year around trustees said.

Alaska Statehood Hangs in Balance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaska's hope for statehood this year hinged today on two major House test votes, either of which could kill its chances.

The first test was scheduled on a preferential motion by Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex) to send a statehood bill back to the House Insular Affairs Committee.

If unsuccessful in this, opponents then could demand a roll-call vote on the action by which the House voted tentatively Tuesday, 144-107, to kill the bill by striking out its enacting clause.

Either motion, if adopted, has the effect of sidetracking any further consideration of the bill.

2 More Twins Are Born to Local Family

Two sets of twins in one family could lead to problems when it comes to names and proper identification.

Nonetheless, a second set of twins was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Strous, 361 Corwin St., today at Berger Hospital.

A daughter weighing 5 pounds 9½ ounces was born at 7:03 a. m. and a son, 6 pounds, at 7:25 a. m. The mother was chosen the names Vickie Marie and Rickey Edward for the twins.

Mr. and Mrs. Strous have resided in Circleville for the past 15 years. They have six other children ranging for three to 14-years-old.

The children are Connie, 14, Thomas, 11, James, 10, the other set of twins, Deena and Diana, 6, and Charles, 3.

Man Makes 5th Visit to Muny Court

Hunter Certain, 34, 351 Barnes Ave., made his fifth appearance within the past several months before Judge Sterling Lamb's Circleville Municipal Court bench.

Certain's misdemeanors started last November 16 when he was arrested for intoxication. Again on November 29 he was arrested on the same charge. He recorded his third intoxication charge December 9.

On the third count, Certain was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and received a fine of $50 and costs. Sixty days of his sentence was suspended and he was placed on a year's probation.

He was arrested on April 5 for intoxication and had 15 days of his former sentence reimposed. Today the final 45 days of his 90 day sentence was reimposed. He was arrested for assault and battery committed upon his wife, Lucy, who signed the affidavit. He also was fined $50 and costs.

OTHER CASES heard were Robert Williams, arrested for disturbing the peace. He was fined $10 and costs. The affidavit was filed by his father, L. D. Williams.

Joseph Wolfe, 372 E. Main St., received a fine of $5 and costs for allowing his dog to run loose.

Vote Probe . . .

as a witness and supported her husband's story of seeing the two men standing in the rain across from the west entrance of the Walnut St. School. She said she was unable to see money being passed because the men's backs were toward her. She said she thought at the time it was peculiar for the men to be standing in the downpour when the automobile was so close at hand.

Dollison was the next witness. He stated he had resided in Lowery Lane for the past three months. He said he knew Brown to speak to and had seen him on election day near the Walnut St. School.

DOLLISON testified, "He (Brown) didn't pass me no money, just gave me two little cards after I had asked him where a person voted in this ward. I didn't know what was on those cards and didn't make no promises."

Brown was the next witness and related he was a bartender at the local Eagles Club. He said he had met Cromley one time before election eve. Brown stated the second time he and Cromley met he promised to work for him on election day. Prosecutor Davis questioned Brown several times as to the fact he had met the man only twice, but promised to work for him free of charge.

Brown said Cromley had paid for a beer party on election eve and the cost was either $13.10 or $13.60. Davis asked Brown if this was a regular practice of the Eagles Lodge, permitting a non-member to buy drinks for members. Brown said the check paying for the beer was made out to the Eagles, not to him.

On election day Brown said he saw Dollison in an alley across from the Walnut St. school and passed him a sample ballot marked for Cromley. He said he hadn't paid Dollison or anyone else money to vote for Cromley. He continued by stating he had approached 15 or 20 persons and urged them to vote for Cromley.

Walter Goodman, 624 S. Court St., testified he had never seen any actual money pass between persons on election day but had been told by two persons that they had sold their vote.

Goodman named Catherine Moore as saying she had been paid $1 to vote for Mace. He also named Louis Kuhn as telling him he had been paid $20 to work for Mace. Goodman ended his testimony by saying he told Kuhn, "Louis, for $20 a day you had better stick with it."

THE NEXT witnesses to appear were the 4-D precinct officials. In essence they said that nothing out of place or unusual had taken place on election day.

They all stated that several people had asked what man was on what ballot and that they had taken notice of the Barbara Wolfe incident when Mrs. Robison related the girl was under age.

Presiding judge, Mrs. Rosalie Turner said when questioned by Davis, "There was nothing irregular on election day, no statements were made about the vote buying and no one asked for help in marking their ballot because they couldn't read or write.

Mrs. Gloria Cockrell, precinct judge, daughter of Mrs. Turner, Rear 373 Walnut St., appeared next and upheld her mother's story. She said, "I saw nothing unusual on election day. Yes, several people asked what ballot a certain man was on. No, I didn't know Barbara Wolfe."

Mrs. Lillie E. Dumm, precinct judge, 340 Walnut St., said "It was unusual how they came in bunches. I was handing out the ballots and several people came in and said they wanted to vote for Mace but didn't know what ballot he was on." She also related that she guessed Rance Wolfe brought the girl in because they came in together.

Fourth precinct worker to testify was Mrs. Martha Morrison, 940 Clinton St. She said that quite a few had asked for the ballot on which Mace's name appeared and that Barbara Wolfe came into the polls right behind Rance, but nothing unusual occurred that day.

MRS. MARY Walton, 362 Walnut St. stated that several times during the day the group had registered disgust at the vote buying. She said, "Several persons asked for help in marking their ballot but aid was refused."

Last witness to appear was Miss Lucille Dumm, 340 Walnut St., precinct judge. Miss Dumm, a precinct worker for the last six or seven years, said that during the day she had walked to the landing of the first floor of the school and observed something unusual.

She said, "I saw Brown behind his car in the alley across from the west entrance of the school. I saw several people vote and then walk across to Brown and he would hand them what I believe was money."

She related she had seen Brown before Smith arrived. She also said that it was unusual for such a heavy vote in her precinct, especially since it was a rainy morning.

Miss Dumm continued, "Persons would come in and asked what ballot Mace or Cromley were on." Asked if workers discussed the fact that things didn't look good election day, she said, "Yes we did." We were all disgusted especially when it was so plain that votes were being bought. We couldn't miss it."

The election board decided that the testimony heard last night warranted further investigation and took steps to continue its search for additional evidence.

Members of the board of elections, before whom the hearing was held are Tom A. Renick, George A. Fissell, Harold Beavers, chairman, and Virgil May.

Coty Calls

PFLIMLIN accepted the compromise and Coty began talking with political leaders. The President said he hoped to be able to name a candidate to succeed Pflimlin by evening.

If Coty decided not to call De Gaulle, the best guess was that he would ask Socialist Guy Mollet to try to form a government. Mollet holds the postwar record for length of office as premier.

The outcome was hopefully awaited in Algiers, where the crisis was touched off May 13 by a military-civilian seizure of power in defiance of Paris.

The junta ruling Algeria and Corsica has vowed to remain defiant until De Gaulle takes over.

Some 50,000 persons, the largest crowd since the insurgent movement began, demonstrated Tuesday night in Algiers demanding De Gaulle as a strongman leader of France.

Paris remained quiet but was tense with rumors that the paratroopers who sparked the Algeria uprising might move to install De Gaulle by force. But the drama in the Assembly and Coty's Elysee Palace produced no visible effect on the capital's normal life.

America's Unknowns Lie in Capitol Rotunda

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Unknowns of America's latest wars came home today in immortal glory.

The bodies of the nameless ones of World War II and Korea were borne in ceremony from the destroyer which brought them home, to the Capitol where they will lie in state until the final honors of Memoria Day.

Vice President Nixon and other dignitaries stood at reverent attention as the flag-draped coffins were placed side by side in the vast rotunda of the Capitol.

The public was welcome to file by the bronze caskets and hundreds of spectators were on hand when they were carried up the steps in the morning sunshine.

A composite guard of honor from the Army, Navy and Air Force escorted the black hearses in the slow funeral procession from the Naval Gun Factory.

The caskets occupied the place of honor in the Capitol where World War I Gen. John J. Pershing and many another dignitary, such as the Unknown Sodier of World War I, have lain in state.

The bodies were borne ashore from the destroyer Blandy to the booming of a 21-gun salute. Military officials headed by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy stood rigid in silence.

In the rotunda, surrounded by statues of famous Americans of the past, both Nixon and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn placed wreaths on the coffins.

The Korean Unknown was carried up the Capitol steps first. The World War II veteran's casket followed.

Beneath the dome in the Capitol rotunda, they will lie in state in twin bronze caskets until Friday, when they will be transported to permanent tombs alongside that of the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

They reached Washington Tuesday aboard the Blandy, which brought them from a seaborne rendezvous at which the two were selected to symbolize for all time the 8,494 fighting men still unidentified from World War II and the 853 from the Korean War.

Officals of the Military District of Washington, responsible for the detailed planning of the entire unknowns funeral and burial program, have been compelled to compile a minute-by-minute timetable for flora presentations.

For today, the timetable showed a wreath-laying ceremony every 15 minutes; for Thursday, one every five minutes over an interval of several hours.

Man Makes 5th Visit to Muny Court

Hunter Certain, 34, 351 Barnes Ave., made his fifth appearance within the past several months before Judge Sterling Lamb's Circleville Municipal Court bench.

Certain's misdemeanors started last November 16 when he was arrested for intoxication. Again on November 29 he was arrested on the same charge. He recorded his third intoxication charge December 9.

On the third count, Certain was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and received a fine of $50 and costs. Sixty days of his sentence was suspended and he was placed on a year's probation.

He was arrested on April 5 for intoxication and had 15 days of his former sentence reimposed. Today the final 45 days of his 90 day sentence was reimposed. He was arrested for assault and battery committed upon his wife, Lucy, who signed the affidavit. He also was fined $50 and costs.

OTHER CASES heard were Robert Williams, arrested for disturbing the peace. He was fined $10 and costs. The affidavit was filed by his father, L. D. Williams.

Joseph Wolfe, 372 E. Main St., received a fine of $5 and costs for allowing his dog to run loose.

Vote Probe . . .

as a witness and supported her husband's story of seeing the two men standing in the rain across from the west entrance of the Walnut St. School. She said she was unable to see money being passed because the men's backs were toward her. She said she thought at the time it was peculiar for the men to be standing in the downpour when the automobile was so close at hand.

Dollison was the next witness. He stated he had resided in Lowery Lane for the past three months. He said he knew Brown to speak to and had seen him on election day near the Walnut St. School.

DOLLISON testified, "He (Brown) didn't pass me no money, just gave me two little cards after I had asked him where a person voted in this ward. I didn't know what was on those cards and didn't make no promises."

Brown was the next witness and related he was a bartender at the local Eagles Club. He said he had met Cromley one time before election eve. Brown stated the second time he and Cromley met he promised to work for him on election day. Prosecutor Davis questioned Brown several times as to the fact he had met the man only twice, but promised to work for him free of charge.

Brown said Cromley had paid for a beer party on election eve and the cost was either $13.10 or $13.60. Davis asked Brown if this was a regular practice of the Eagles Lodge, permitting a non-member to buy drinks for members. Brown said the check paying for the beer was made out to the Eagles, not to him.

On election day Brown said he saw Dollison in an alley across from the Walnut St. school and passed him a sample ballot marked for Cromley. He said he hadn't paid Dollison or anyone else money to vote for Cromley. He continued by stating he had approached 15 or 20 persons and urged them to vote for Cromley.

Walter Goodman, 624 S. Court St., testified he had never seen any actual money pass between persons on election day but had been told by two persons that they had sold their vote.

Goodman named Catherine Moore as saying she had been paid $1 to vote for Mace. He also named Louis Kuhn as telling him he had been paid $20 to work for Mace. Goodman ended his testimony by saying he told Kuhn, "Louis, for $20 a day you had better stick with it."

THE NEXT witnesses to appear were the 4-D precinct officials. In essence they said that nothing out of place or unusual had taken place on election day.

They all stated that several people had asked what man was on what ballot and that they had taken notice of the Barbara Wolfe incident when Mrs. Robison related the girl was under age.

Presiding judge, Mrs. Rosalie Turner said when questioned by Davis, "There was nothing irregular on election day, no statements were made about the vote buying and no one asked for help in marking their ballot because they couldn't read or write.

Mrs. Gloria Cockrell, precinct judge, daughter of Mrs. Turner, Rear 373 Walnut St., appeared next and upheld her mother's story. She said, "I saw nothing unusual on election day. Yes, several people asked what ballot a certain man was on. No, I didn't know Barbara Wolfe."

Mrs. Lillie E. Dumm, precinct judge, 340 Walnut St., said "It was unusual how they came in bunches. I was handing out the ballots and several people came in and said they wanted to vote for Mace but didn't know what ballot he was on." She also related that she guessed Rance Wolfe brought the girl in because they came in together.

Fourth precinct worker to testify was Mrs. Martha Morrison, 940 Clinton St. She said that quite a few had asked for the ballot on which Mace's name appeared and that Barbara Wolfe came into the polls right behind Rance, but nothing unusual occurred that day.

MRS. MARY Walton, 362 Walnut St. stated that several times during the day the group had registered disgust at the vote buying. She said, "Several persons asked for help in marking their ballot but aid was refused."

Last witness to appear was Miss Lucille Dumm, 340 Walnut St., precinct judge. Miss Dumm, a precinct worker for the last six or seven years, said that during the day she had walked to the landing of the first floor of the school and observed something unusual.

She said, "I saw Brown behind his car in the alley across from the west entrance of the school. I saw several people vote and then walk across to Brown and he would hand them what I believe was money."

She related she had seen Brown before Smith arrived. She also said that it was unusual for such a heavy vote in her precinct, especially since it was a rainy morning.

Miss Dumm continued, "Persons would come in and asked what ballot Mace or Cromley were on." Asked if workers discussed the fact that things didn't look good election day, she said, "Yes we did." We were all disgusted especially when it was so plain that votes were being bought. We couldn't miss it."

The election board decided that the testimony heard last night warranted further investigation and took steps to continue its search for additional evidence.

Members of the board of elections, before whom the hearing was held are Tom A. Renick, George A. Fissell, Harold Beavers, chairman, and Virgil May.

Coty Calls

PFLIMLIN accepted the compromise and Coty began talking with political leaders. The President said he hoped to be able to name a candidate to succeed Pflimlin by evening.

If Coty decided not to call De Gaulle, the best guess was that he would ask Socialist Guy Mollet to try to form a government. Mollet holds the postwar record for length of office as premier.

The outcome was hopefully awaited in Algiers, where the crisis was touched off May 13 by a military-civilian seizure of power in defiance of Paris.

The junta ruling Algeria and Corsica has vowed to remain defiant until De Gaulle takes over.

Some 50,000 persons, the largest crowd since the insurgent movement began, demonstrated Tuesday night in Algiers demanding De Gaulle as a strongman leader of France.

Paris remained quiet but was tense with rumors that the paratroopers who sparked the Algeria uprising might move to install De Gaulle by force. But the drama in the Assembly and Coty's Elysee Palace produced no visible effect on the capital's normal life.

The public was welcome to file by the bronze caskets and hundreds of spectators were on hand when they were carried up the steps in the morning sunshine.

A composite guard of honor from the Army, Navy and Air Force escorted the black hearses in the slow funeral procession from the Naval Gun Factory.

The caskets occupied the place of honor in the Capitol where World War I Gen. John J. Pershing and many another dignitary, such as the Unknown Sodier of World War I, have lain in state.

The bodies were borne ashore from the destroyer Blandy to the booming of a 21-gun salute. Military officials headed by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy stood rigid in silence.

In the rotunda, surrounded by statues of famous Americans of the past, both Nixon and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn placed wreaths on the coffins.

The Korean Unknown was carried up the Capitol steps first. The World War II veteran's casket followed.

Beneath the dome in the Capitol rotunda, they will lie in state in twin bronze caskets until Friday, when they will be transported to permanent tombs alongside that of the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

They reached Washington Tuesday aboard the Blandy, which brought them from a seaborne rendezvous at which the two were selected to symbolize for all time the 8,494 fighting men still unidentified from World War II and the 853 from the Korean War.

Officals of the Military District of Washington, responsible for the detailed planning of the entire unknowns funeral and burial program, have been compelled to compile a minute-by-minute timetable for flora presentations.

For today, the timetable showed a wreath-laying ceremony every 15 minutes; for Thursday, one every five minutes over an interval of several hours.

Ike Indicates He Sees End Of Recession

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's decision against any tax cutting now indicates he believes that the recession is about over.

The new foe to be guarded against is a renewal of the inflation that has sheered off so much of the purchasing power of the dollar.

Those who think otherwise may still have their day in Congress and some predict that the excise taxes on autos may be cut to help sales of that beleaguered industry's product and on freight rates and passenger fares to help the faltering railroads.

Warm weather has brought a number of hopeful signs to back up the President's apparent view that the worst of the industrial slump is over. Outdoor jobs have opened up and cut the rise in unemployment. A number of industries have reported the first quickening of new orders after a long decline.

Steel mills are operating at a better rate than at any time since January — although some of the new orders may be to beat the price rise which seems sure to come after wages go up July 1.

The price rises, if they stick, will do their bit toward pushing along the new inflation which many observers fear will follow the slump.

Advocates of individual income and excise tax cutting now have argued it would stimulate consumer buying and put men back to work. Corporate income tax cutting and easier depreciation allowances, proponents say, would help business hold its profit margin without price hiking.

The argument against tax cutting—and the one the President seems to have accepted—is that rapidly increasing government spending means a growing treasury deficit and federal debt. A tax cut now would only make this worse. This would set the stage for future inflation, since the government would be pumping more money into the economy than it was taking out—a move roughly comparable to running the printing presses.

An alternative might be to cut back government spending. But that continues to mount at all levels—state and local as well as federal.

Bricker's TV Bill Gets Initial Nod

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio senator's bill to develop state educational television systems has been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee.

Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), the bill's co-sponsor with Committee Chairman Warren Magnuson (D-Wash), says he has assurances it will receive prompt action in the Senate.

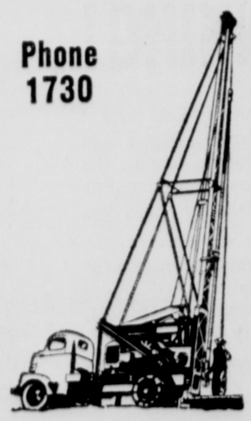

The bill would give $49 million in federal money to the states in grants of up to 1 million apiece. The U.S. Commissioner of Education would make the grants to expand or establish educational television.

Too Much Prosperity?

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Eight weeks ago a laborer, Arthur Barnes, won $136,584 for a two-cent bet in Britain's soccer pool. He died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 61.

Capt. Mary Converse, 86, Sets Her Sights on Moon

DENVER (AP) — Denver's great grandmother sea captain is cultivating a new hobby—space.

Capt. Mary Converse, the only woman in the nation licensed to command craft of any size on the high seas, says she has been struck by moon madness — at 86.

Space is no stranger to Capt. Mary. She taught astral navigation to more than 2,500 Navy, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine students during World War II. The school room was in her Denver home.

Now it's rockets. She is a member of the research association of the High Altitude Observatory of the University of Colorado, working in the International Geophysical Year program. Her interest at present is research on the ionosphere.

In between IGY articles, Capt. Converse is working on her autobiography — but she admits it's pretty slow going with her other interests. In fact, she said, she hasn't been able to get past 1910.

Capt. Converse was born Mary Parker in Walden, Mass. Her husband, Harry E. Converse, was a wealthy Boston shoe manufacturer and yachtsman. He died in 1921 and Mrs. Converse moved to Denver four years later.

When she was 67, Capt. Converse again turned to navigation and won her master's papers. Her license was renewed for five years after examination in 1955.

She spends much of her time now with a son Elisha in Camarillo, Calif. Two other sons live in Massachusetts, Parker in Marion, and Roger W. in Boston. A daughter, Mrs. John Butler lives in Winnetka, Ill. Capt. Converse's 47th great-grandchild arrived recently.

Capt. Converse grants that she may have slowed down a bit.

"I haven't played tennis since I was 80," she said.

A Tribute to American Heroes

May 30 has been set aside to honor those who served in defense of their country. Originated following the Civil War, observance carried with it a prayer of thankfulness for peace, and the fervent hope that the American people would never again suffer from the cruelties of conflict.

Since that day this nation has been engagaed in four wars. The threat of a fifth is ever present.

It is fitting that those who died to preserve the nation be honored. But there must be firm resolve that the nation for which they fought and died shall be prepared to repel the new threat that confronts it. Thecountry which they fought to preserve and protect owes that, first of all to their memory.

Friday the nation will acknowledge with fitting ceremonies its great debt to those who fought for it in the past. From this observance must spring renewed by the termination to protect, at whatever cost, the way of life which was preserved by the valorous deeds of these heroic dead.

Words are inadequate to express what is in the hearts of Americans on Memorial Day. The nation finds it necessary to turn to symbols to express its homage to those who offered their lives that this nation might live to advance the cause of freedom and human dignity. So men in uniform march, rifles crash out their volleys, and the notes of "Taps" bless the flower-strewn graves of the hero dead.

It is a ritual hallowed by custom and richer with meaning today than ever in the past. As tribute is paid to the men of wars fought long ago, and more recently, the hope for enduring peace hangs in the balance.

It is a long list, that of the battlefields of the Revolution, of the War of 1812, of the Mexican War, of the Indian Wars, of the Civil War, of the Spanish-American War, of World War I and World WarII, and of the Korean War.

If words are inadequate to express what is in the hearts of the American people on Memorial Day, so are symbols. Only with work and sacrifice to safeguard what the nation's heroes so valiantly protected can we hope to prove our pride and gratitude—hope to deserve in some small part the offerings freely made in our behalf.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles de Gaulle has been so vague, or just confused, about what he'd do as French premier that his bid for power is like asking the French to buy a savior at midnight in a coalbin.

The French crisis—over his efforts to get into a spot to straighten things out—is one that has truly left the experts guessing if not gasping. And no wonder.

News that the Assembly had temporarily brushed De Gaulle aside early today—by voting confidence in Premier Pierre Pflimlin—had hardly cleared the wires in this country when a startling bulletin came rattling through.

This one said that Pflimlin, despite his victory in the Assembly, was thinking of quitting anyway, that could open the door wider for De Gaulle to become premier. But although Pflimlin submitted his resignation, it was rejected for the moment, and he agreed to continue in office until a new government is ready to take over.

The most notable feature of all the interpretations of the past two weeks — written or verbal — has been the lack of positiveness not only on whether De Gaulle could take or be given power again but what he'd do if he got it.

De Gaulle has wrapped himself in such a fog—first by his silence in recent years, and more lately by his fuzzy statements—that no one not in his inner councils could claim to know what he had in mind.

He's opened up twice in the past week: first at a news conference and then in a written statement issued Tuesday. The words that came forth were so arrogant, pompous and vague that they looked mystical.

De Gaulle appears hypnotized —and so do his followers, or they pretend to be — by the memory that he was the rallying point for the demoralized French in World War II and could be again now.

In short, he's been asking the French to buy him on face value, without any clearly stated program, policy or proposed solution for the multiple dilemmas of the French republic which has seen its army in effect revolt.

For the French to buy him on those terms is really asking for trouble since they don't, and can't, know whether he has any solutions, whether he could assert himself, or whether he'd be simply a front man and mouthpiece for the army.

And, since not all Frenchmen want to buy him at all, there's the prospect of civil war.

From the pomposity of his language it is clear De Gaulle has reached the point of considering himself a kind of historic monument: he talks of himself in the third person, as he might about the long-dead Joan of Arc.

To add to the confusion — not only in France but around the world—it is not known:

1. Whether he would try to take France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, an event which might wreck it for keeps.
2. What kind of agreement he might try to reach with the Soviet Union independently of France's Western allies.
3. What he'd do about suppressing the revolt of the Algerian Moslems, who want independence, or trying to work out some kind of settlement satisfactory to them.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN OLD FRIEND of Ed Gardner complained bitterly that his wife was making his life a hell on earth. "How long have you been married?" asked Gardner. "Twenty horrible, unbearable years," groaned the friend. "Why don't you leave her?" asked Gardner.

"I'd have walked out long ago," admitted the friend, "but I just can't bear the thought of kissing her goodby."

WAS A WOMAN — Bearded, pipe-smoking Dr. Laurence Michael Dillon, 43, is shown in Philadelphia as he was interviewed on the subject of having formerly been a woman. Dillon, whose brother is Sir Robert Dillon, an Irish baronet, is medical officer of the liner City of Bath. The story came out when one British peerage directory listed Dillon as Sir Robert's brother and another as a sister. Dr. Dillon said he noticed an emotional sex change during his teens, and in 1945 he said he started having operations to effect the change. It was completed four years later. (International)

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT: Better Health Through Knowledge

● Leukemia

Q. Is it correct to say that leukemia is "cancer of the blood"?

A. It would be better to say that leukemia is cancer of the blood-forming organs. Even this is not technically correct unless "cancer" is used in terms of how body cells behave. As in other forms of cancer the basic trouble in leukemia lies within the body cells.

Q. Is leukemia as deadly as other forms of cancer?

A. Yes, and much more so than most forms of cancer. There is no known way to cure leukemia but doctors do have ways of prolonging the life of many unforunate victims of this disease —something that was not possible a few years ago. Recent animal experiments using bone marrow injections may lead to better ways of treating leukemia.

Q. Can leukemia be inherited?

A. The question is still pretty much up in the air. One doctor estimates that the chance of a relative of a patient with leukemia getting the disease is 1 in 250 as compared with 1 in 4,000 in the case of families in which no member has had leukemia. Leukemia can strike twice in one family but it doesn't happen very often.

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on various scientific publications and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease requires the skill and knowledge which only a physician can apply by personally attending the patient.

Life Is Merry in This Factory

By Hal Boyle

By ANGELO NATALE
(For Hal Boyle)

TIFLIS (AP)—Take a trip out of this favorite tourist attraction in the Georgian Republic and you'll soon be filled with the spirit of brotherhood and friendship — and with generous samples of the finest champagne produced in the Soviet Union.

"We turn out 5½ million bottles of champagne a year," says factory deputy director Vasili Goglidze in an office decorated with pictures of Stalin, Lenin, Khrushchev and Bulganin. "And by 1960 our output here will be six million bottles a year."

"Try this," he says, handing you a king-sized glass of champagne "This is our sweet variety."

"To friendship," he says. And you down your first glass of champagne.

If you make the visit to the factory, here's a word of advice. Don't go into ecstasies over the champagne, because the staff will promptly see to it that your glass is refilled. And there are three more types of sparkling wine to go—semisweet, semidry and dry. The semisweet and semidry are the most popular in sales, Goglidze says.

The factory itself is impressive. More than a million bottles are lined in rows, neck down, in the twisting cellars. They stay here for the five years necessary for proper aging, and each is turned by hand from time to time in the process.

The Tiflis champagne also is exported to Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The factory uses two different methods in producing champagne; one process takes five years, and a new accelerated system has the finished product ready in one year. The five-year variety is finer and more expensive. It costs, says factory officials, 13 to 14 rubles to produce each bottle of champagne. The five-year variety sells for 20 to 21 rubles a bottle. The ruble is officially valued at 25 cents.

From what Goglidze says, factory employes have a ball.

"There are more than 500 workers. Some live in Tiflis and others in the workers' settlement. The factory has its own sports club, with strong football and volleyball teams. The workers go in for group singing and dancing."

They work five eight-hour days and six hours on Saturday.

Clean Ears Before Swimming

By Herman N. Bundesen, M. D.

Now hear this, as they say in the Navy:

Get the wax out of your ears before you go swimming this summer.

This may seem like silly advice for swimmers. You probably expected me to caution you not to go swimming for at least an hour after eating and not to swim when overheated.

This is valuable advice, of course but most of you already are well aware of these dangers.

This wax business is something else again. You probably never gave it a thought. But wax in the ears, particularly in only one ear, can be a serious problem to a swimmer. When one ear is clogged with wax, you see, dizziness is likely to occur.

It's practically impossible, as you well know, to keep water out of your ears while swimming. The cold water can easily reach the labyrinth of the unclogged ear, but it cannot reach that of the wax-blocked ear.

Thus, two different unbalanced reactions are set up. The result is apt to be dizziness and inability to tell the position of the body because the sense of equilibrium is controlled in the ears' labyrinths.

It's fairly easy to see that under such conditions a swimmer might panic and even drown.

This is just one more reason why all swimmers should follow the example set by the Boy Scouts of America and recommended by the National Safety Council.

The "buddy system," developed and fostered by the Boy Scouts, can do a great deal toward helping to reduce the 6,000 drownings that occur annually in the United States.

It's a simple system: swim no farther than 15 feet from a companion and every so often—the Boy Scouts do it every five to eight minutes—look around for your friend and make sure he is safe.

Question and Answer

P. D.: What is sclera derma?

Answer: Sclera derma is a disease of the skin, the cause of which is unknown. The skin gradually becomes tough, rigid and hard to move. It is usually smooth and shiny. The skin may become so hard as to make the moving of the muscles difficult. This disease is more common in women.

Until recently, no treatment has proved of too great value. However, the new hormones ACTH and cortisone have helped some cases.

New Magazine Is Interesting

By George Sokolsky

I have come across a new magazine, "The New York Economist," Vol. 1, No. 1 of which is most interesting because it seems to be devoted to down-grading the foreign policy of the United States and economic conditions in the United States. Granted that neither is too jolly at the present moment, the editor of his publicaation, Dr. Stephen Urban, seems to see all black, much too black. As his name was not known to me, I looked him up.

Dr. Stephen Urban was born October 22, 1920, as Boleslav Steven Koska in Ostrava, Czechoslovakia. He came to the United States on February 26, 1951 and was naturalized on June 4, 1957, at which time he petitioned the U. S. District Court to change his name to Stephen Urban. He is stated to have received a doctorate in economics from the University of Frankfurt in Germany.

In "An Introduction from the publisher," Dr. Urban says:

"During the past two years, we have tried everything including paid advertisements to induce the country's most influential press to alert public opinion, so that the present economic decline (called 'mild' recession, but developing rapidly into a serious depression) might be alleviated.

This decline already costs and will increasingly cost the happiness of many families whose providers are losing jobs and income. Similarly, our experience has been that during this period the press and paid advertisements have advanced the cause of more armaments, nuclear bomb testing, 'limited' wars and 'map-making exercises' in the Middle East etc., while sober rational analyses to diminish world tensions and thus the danger of war, limited or unlimited, were ignored and— or suppressed."

The fact of the matter is that Dr. Urban who is reported to have come to the United States in 1951 from Germany as a displaced person had published an advertisement in the "Wall Street Journal," in 1958, which would indicate that he is well-heeled financially. His private address is 926 Fifth Avenue which indicates prosperity. Dr. Urban has achieved much in the United States during seven years—years of very high taxes.

I have wondered precisely what this paragraph means:

"A most curious twist in history occurred through the intellectual power of man's brains, his capacity to think and construct, not to kill and destroy. Due to our own shortsightedness, the world, led in this regard by our ideological adversaries, is forcing us to remain peaceful, if not to become neutral, in the arena of world politics, or else we must face a war which would devastate our own territory and decimate our own population—the same fate with which we had threatened those who we thought for a decade wanted to wage war on us."

Does Dr. Urban mean to say that the United States is threatening war? Are we being forced to remain peaceful by "our ideological adversaries," the Communists? But look at this one:

"...In fact, Russia is today in a position to say—perhaps in an ultimatum one day if we continue with our concepts of the 'posture of strength,' ignore the notes of her Premier, and keep on endangering, by nuclear radiation, the health of all mankind..."

And look at this one:

"...Do not forget: thirteen years ago American bombers already bombed continental Europe's cities, women and children, causing the deaths of thousands, yes millions of 'perfectly innocent people, some of whom of course, tragically, children'..."

But that is not enough:

"Europe knows that the only danger of Russian occupation comes from the possibility of Russian troops having to advance against American troops entrenched there..."

This publication runs on and on in this tone. In fact the United States is said to have an ignorant or arrogant diplomatic attitude..."One wonders if this is a pacifistic or a pro-Russian publication.

The entire issue is written by this one author, who has only been in the United States seven years and who came as a displaced person from Germany. Surely, Dr. Urban has accomplished almost too much in too short a time for it all to be real. The entire operation, it seems to me, requires another look to see what it really means.

A Tribute to American Heroes

May 30 has been set aside to honor those who served in defense of their country. Originated following the Civil War, observance carried with it a prayer of thankfulness for peace, and the fervent hope that the American people would never again suffer from the cruelties of conflict.

Since that day this nation has been engagaed in four wars. The threat of a fifth is ever present.

It is fitting that those who died to preserve the nation be honored. But there must be firm resolve that the nation for which they fought and died shall be prepared to repel the new threat that confronts it. Thecountry which they fought to preserve and protect owes that, first of all to their memory.

Friday the nation will acknowledge with fitting ceremonies its great debt to those who fought for it in the past. From this observance must spring renewed by the termination to protect, at whatever cost, the way of life which was preserved by the valorous deeds of these heroic dead.

Words are inadequate to express what is in the hearts of Americans on Memorial Day. The nation finds it necessary to turn to symbols to express its homage to those who offered their lives that this nation might live to advance the cause of freedom and human dignity. So men in uniform march, rifles crash out their volleys, and the notes of "Taps" bless the flower-strewn graves of the hero dead.

It is a ritual hallowed by custom and richer with meaning today than ever in the past. As tribute is paid to the men of wars fought long ago, and more recently, the hope for enduring peace hangs in the balance.

It is a long list, that of the battlefields of the Revolution, of the War of 1812, of the Mexican War, of the Indian Wars, of the Civil War, of the Spanish-American War, of World War I and World WarII, and of the Korean War.

If words are inadequate to express what is in the hearts of the American people on Memorial Day, so are symbols. Only with work and sacrifice to safeguard what the nation's heroes so valiantly protected can we hope to prove our pride and gratitude—hope to deserve in some small part the offerings freely made in our behalf.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles de Gaulle has been so vague, or just confused, about what he'd do as French premier that his bid for power is like asking the French to buy a savior at midnight in a coalbin.

The French crisis—over his efforts to get into a spot to straighten things out—is one that has truly left the experts guessing if not gasping. And no wonder.

News that the Assembly had temporarily brushed De Gaulle aside early today—by voting confidence in Premier Pierre Pflimlin—had hardly cleared the wires in this country when a startling bulletin came rattling through.

This one said that Pflimlin, despite his victory in the Assembly, was thinking of quitting anyway, that could open the door wider for De Gaulle to become premier. But although Pflimlin submitted his resignation, it was rejected for the moment, and he agreed to continue in office until a new government is ready to take over.

The most notable feature of all the interpretations of the past two weeks — written or verbal — has been the lack of positiveness not only on whether De Gaulle could take or be given power again but what he'd do if he got it.

De Gaulle has wrapped himself in such a fog—first by his silence in recent years, and more lately by his fuzzy statements—that no one not in his inner councils could claim to know what he had in mind.

He's opened up twice in the past week: first at a news conference and then in a written statement issued Tuesday. The words that came forth were so arrogant, pompous and vague that they looked mystical.

De Gaulle appears hypnotized —and so do his followers, or they pretend to be — by the memory that he was the rallying point for the demoralized French in World War II and could be again now.

In short, he's been asking the French to buy him on face value, without any clearly stated program, policy or proposed solution for the multiple dilemmas of the French republic which has seen its army in effect revolt.

For the French to buy him on those terms is really asking for trouble since they don't, and can't, know whether he has any solutions, whether he could assert himself, or whether he'd be simply a front man and mouthpiece for the army.

And, since not all Frenchmen want to buy him at all, there's the prospect of civil war.

From the pomposity of his language it is clear De Gaulle has reached the point of considering himself a kind of historic monument: he talks of himself in the third person, as he might about the long-dead Joan of Arc.

To add to the confusion — not only in France but around the world—it is not known:

1. Whether he would try to take France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, an event which might wreck it for keeps.
2. What kind of agreement he might try to reach with the Soviet Union independently of France's Western allies.
3. What he'd do about suppressing the revolt of the Algerian Moslems, who want independence, or trying to work out some kind of settlement satisfactory to them.

Pilots May Wear Armor

By JOHN A. BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)— Space knights in leaden armor may pilot tomorrow's rocket exploration of the mysteries of space.

Latest reports from our first tiny satellites indicate the earth is hemmed in by a spherical blanket of high energy rays—rays that could eventually kill a space traveler by destroying vital body cells.

Lead armor suits weighing about 100 pounds could cut X-radiation some 90 per cent and enable space pilots to stay in the radiation area for some six months without too much danger.

The blanket of rays may reach as high as 10,000 miles about the earth and as low as 600 miles.

Space travelers bound for the moon or other planets would pass through this radiation band so quickly that it would not be too much of a hazard. But they would probably wear protective armor anyway.

The real danger would be to men who would work and live on an earth satellite orbiting through the radiation band. Without protection they might die after a prolonged exposure to X-rays.

This band of radiation is just one of the dangers of space. Probably it can be overcome, but two other monstrous barriers will continue to stand between man and his search for new life on other worlds of the universe.

Those barriers are his own short life span and the incredible distances of space.

A man piloting a space ship that traveled 100,000 m.p.h. could fly for 50 years and still be barely out of his own dusty corner of space.

He would have traveled some 44 billion miles. The nearest star is 24 trillion miles away. He would have to travel some 30,000 years at 100,000 m.p.h. to reach it.

Look at it this way: If the earth were a mere bit of buckshot, the sun would be a two-foot beach ball some 213 feet away. The nearest star, another beach ball, would be 11,000 miles away.

Yet sooner or later man will want to look into the other solar systems of the universe. Some astronomers believe there is life—at least as advanced as ours— on perhaps some 100 million other planets.

The only answer to the problems of penetrating the universe seems to be more speed—perhaps approaching the speed of light, 186,000 miles a second.

If man can ever find a way of rocketing through space at even half that speed, he could reach the nearest star in about eight years as against the 30,000 years it would take at 100,000 m.p.h.

Right now, however, the barriers of distance seem insurmountable. Man may have to content himself with conquering his own solar system—the eight planets that accompany the earth on the silent journey around the sun.

These planets are almost within reach. This year rocket flights are planned to the moon, only some 240,000 miles away. Someday — perhaps in the next few years—men will rocket to the moon in five hours.

After the moon has been won, space scientists will shoot for the planets.

Venus—almost earthlike in size —is the next planet on the sunside of our orbit. We know little about it because of the density of its atmosphere and the heavy clouds about it.

On the other side of our orbit is little Mars. With its strange looking canal-like markings and its changing colors, Mars has been given the best chance of having some form of life, possibly vegetable. It is only half the size of earth.

Perhaps these two planets, if they can support life, may become earth suburbs in space.

Beyond Mars the planets get colder and colder with the greater distance from the sun.

First the space traveler would encounter the asteroid belt—a wild merry-go-round of spatial debris, chunks of planets perhaps. This ring of flying matter seems to be strongly influenced by the pull of Jupiter, the largest planet and the next one out from Mars.

Jupiter has 12 moons of its own —and it is at least as big as all of the rest of the planets lumped together.

Beyond Jupiter are Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. Once they have been conquered, some scientist looking out at the spiral cluster of stars that is a distant galaxy will wonder how man can boost his rocket speed still higher to measure the universe.

Or perhaps a scientist of another people on some other world billions of light years away is wondering now if there is life in the Milky Way.

By JAMES B. SIBBISON

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials privately consider U.S. restrictions against Russian travel in much of the United States absurd.

The only reason the limitations are enforced, a government official said today, is because U. S. diplomats in Moscow complain about the way their own movements are restricted.

He said U. S. Ambassador Llewelyn Thompson and his entourage in Moscow once got so irritated they asked that "road blocks be set up in Maryland against the Russians."

"They can't take a Sunday afternoon drive today," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

"When you think about it," he said, "it is pretty silly to let Russians see a Ford automation plant in Cleveland but keep them out of Detroit.

"Why, the Russians can't even visit Disneyland. Now isn't that absurd?"

Another example: Russians can't drive to Ohio via the Ohio Turnpike, but they can fly there without interference.

Actually, this source said, the State Department wants to let the Soviets travel anywhere Americans ordinarily go—meaning all but a very few classified areas.

But they are using the tough restrictions against traveling Russians in an effort to open more territory in the Soviet Union, a policy they believe is getting some results and should get more.

This was the idea behind the new State Department proposal, advanced a few days ago, to open specific American cities for Particular Soviet cities.

An effort was made by the state and defense departments to select these cities according to similarity in population and general industrial set-up.

This is the way the plan paired up Ohio cities:

Toledo would be opened in exchange for Semipalatinsk, a Soviet city on the Irtysh River.

Toledo's big industries are glass, railroads, oil refining and manufacturing. Semipalatinsk, like Toledo, is a transportation hub, but has about one third Toledo's 300,000 population and specializes in meat packing and wool washing.

Another pairing was Akron and Kamensk-Ural-Skiy. This Soviet town is in the foothills of the Urals. Akron, too, is hilly. Akron's big output is rubber. Kamensk produces aluminum.

Dayton, birthplace of the aviation pioneers, the Wright Brothers, has this in common with its Russian parallel: They both make a lot of bicycles.

3 Pilots Die as Jets Collide in Southwest

CLOVIS, N. M. (AP)—Three pilots died Tuesday in the collision of two Super Sabre Jets over Cannon Air Force Base.

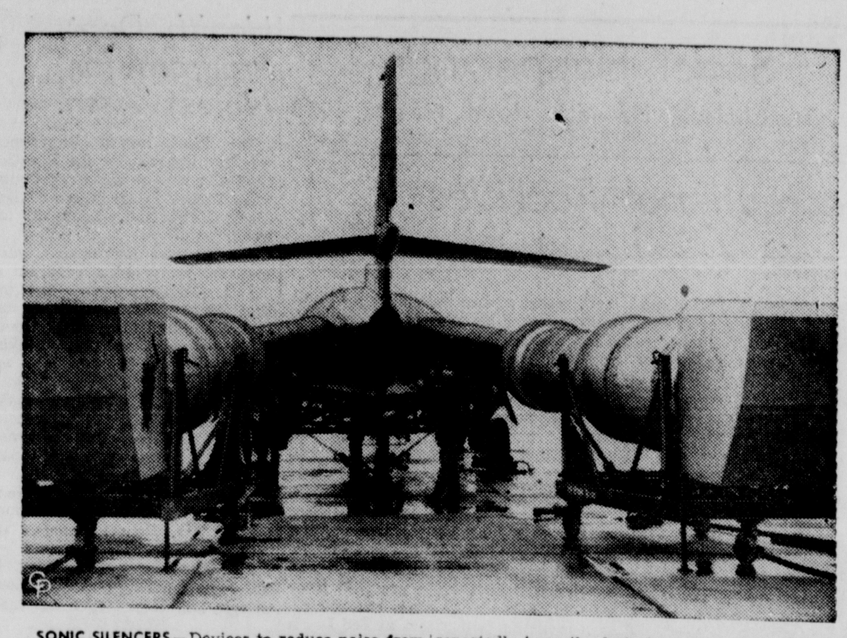

A twin-seater F100F and a single seat F100D collided while the F100F was landing.

The base said the F100F was at a "pretty low altitude" making an emergency landing approach because of radio failure.

Tax Rate Extension Due for Panel's Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another year's extension of corporation income and excise tax rates at present levels was due to be approved today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bipartisan decision to continue such tax rates unchanged until June 30, 1959, all but ruled out any substantial personal income or other tax cuts this year.

SONIC SILENCERS — Devices to reduce noise from its engines while on the ground are attached to one of Britain's new Supermarine Scimitars. The twin-jet fighters, capable of the speed of sound, reportedly have the fastest rate of climb of any operational aircraft in the world. They can take off in approximately thirty seconds and carry nuclear weapons for ground attack. (Central Press)

LOCKED UP — Mrs. Rose Powers, 46, former Army nurse, is being held by police in Texarkana, Tex., in the death of a partly-decomposed baby found in a footlocker. She told police she bore the child illegitimately and kept it hidden in the footlocker for 11 years "because I just couldn't get rid of it."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee Tuesday approved a $250 million financing bill designed to solve long term credit problems of small concerns.

New Hymnals Topic for Woman's Group

Plans for the purchase of new Hymnals were made when Atlanta Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the church last week.

Mrs. George Sernlly, Mrs. Ulin McGee and Mrs. Ray Welsh were appointed to purchase new church hymnals. A card of thanks was read from Mrs. J. C. Roberts. Final plans were made on serving the alumni banquet.

Mrs. George Neal, president, presided over the meeting. The group voted to assist the Sunday School in purchasing literature for the Bible School.

The Rev. Glenn A. Robinson conducted the installation of the new officers. The officers will preside at the June meeting which will be held June 25th. Mrs. Florence Jewell was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Warren Hobble was in charge of the program. A table of fruit, grain, bread, milk, water and flowers illustrated the scripture lesson. "The March of the Mission Dollars" was the topic used. Recreational Facilities Topic for Local Forum

The Circleville Forum met last night at the home of Mrs. Horace Luton, Route 1, who served dessert to members and guests upon arrival.

Ben Gordon and William Cook led a discussion to what extent is the responsibility of a municipality to provide recreational facilities for its citizens. The summer program at Ted Lews Park will consist of baseball, basketball, tennis, craft classes, and picnic facilities.

The money for maintenance and repair is appropriated by council out of General Funds. The City School Board and Kiwanis pay the salaries of the part recreation director and his assistant.

Under our present local laws there is no provisions for a park commission. This means that our parks can not plan over a number of years because the money appropriated to the park system varies too much each year. At present, needs vary from new benches for the ball games at Ted Lewis Park to play ground equipment at the South End Park.

Mayor Gordon said organizations or individuals can give money to buy benches, for the park, which cost ten dollars.

We enjoyed the discussion and felt that all could show more interest in improving our parks and recreational facilities.

The newly elected officers for next year wil be Mrs. Horace Luton, pres.; Mrs. Stering Poling, vice president; Mrs. Norman Kutler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas Matesky, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Vincent, treasurer.

Our next meeting will be in September at Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Robert Christy, Mrs. Fred Tammany and Mrs. Robert Wood.

3 Empty Chairs To Mark Meet Of Legislature

3 Republican Solons Called by Death Since Assembly Met Last

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three empty chairs will mark the toll of time when the Legislature returns in special session next month.

Two representatives and a senator died after the regular session of the 102nd General Assembly ended last June 18.

They were Reps. Walter T. Gardner of Bryan, Dailey R. Turner of Tiffin and Sen. Clarence Krueger of Berlin Heights, Erie County, all Republicans. Gardner headed the House Organization of State Government Committee.

But Republicans in both houses retain strong numerical majorities that may be called upon to hold the line on matters in GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill's call for a special session.

Minority Democrats indicate they will press for action on other items considered helpful to their party in this election year quest for votes.

Republicans will have 92 members in the House to 42 Democrats. In the Senate, there will be 21 Republicans to 12 Democrats if vacations and other activities do not cut attendance.

Twenty two of the lawmakers will be "lame ducks"—those who did not seek renomination in the May primaries or were defeated. Fourteen of them are Republicans and eight are Democrats.

Two democratic House members won senatorial nominations. They are Reps. Ray T. Miller and Eugene J. Sawacki, both of Cleveland.

An outstanding "lame duck" will be Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland), veteran chairman of the House Finance Committee and a representative since 1945.

Other retiring GOP chairmen of House committees are: T. K. Owens of Jackson, education; Cedric A. Stanley of Lebanon, reference; John J. Chester Jr. of Columbus, metropolitan areas, and Lytle G. Zuber of Columbus, military affairs.

Reps. Leslie M. Burge of Lorain, Republican Whip, and Robert L. Johnson of Medina, GOP member of the powerful Rules Committee, also are retiring.

Additional retiring republicans are: Reps. Harry D. Bellis of Delphos, Ray Miller of Paulding, Earl Jenkins of Ashley, Loretta Woods of Portsmouth, John J. Connors Jr. of Toledo, Arthur H. Milner of Leesburg and Virgil Perrill of Washington Court House, now in his eighth term.

Democrats are: Reps. Michael J. Crosser of Cleveland, Frank M. Gorman of Cleveland, Robert H. Longfellow of Greenville, Arthur H. Milleson of Freeport and John J. Lynch of Youngstown.

Retiring Democrat senators are: Joseph W. Bartunek, Senate miority leader; Andrew C. Putka and Frank D. Celebrezze, all of Cleveland.

Slayer of Amish To Die Sept. 8

MILLERSBURG (AP) — Cleo Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, must die in Ohio's electric chair Sept. 8, the Fifth District Court of Appeals has ruled. His attorneys said they expect to appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Peters and Michael Demoulin, 20, of Wooster, were convicted of murder in the mid-1957 slaying of Paul Coblentz, 25, a young Amish farmer, during a robbery. A three-judge court recommended mercy for Demoulin and he is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

The appellate court earlier this month turned down Peters' appeal from his conviction, but delayed setting a new date for execution.

Gluttonous Ohioan Nabbed by Police

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—A gunman from Ohio was in jail today because he wasn't satisfied with the amount of money in the office safe at a local market.

Patrolman Carl Wilcoxson was waiting as Donald D. Kling, 30, Findlay, walked out with about $1,000 in store receipts. Kling is held under $10,000 bond.

Manager David Rhoads said Kling might have been able to escape with the money from the safe but instead ordered him to get the cash from the checkout registers. Rhoads went for it and whispered to a visiting salesman that the store was being robbed. The salesman left the store and called police.

Passenger Car Sales Far Behind '57 Total

So far this year the auto industry has built about 1,867,000 cars. It has sold approximately 1,900,000. At the comparable point in 1957 output had reached 2,800,000 units and sales 2,500,000.

Flemming Asks U.S. To 'Love Neighbor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, soon to become secretary of health, education and welfare, believes the United States must observe the Commandment to love thy neighbor as thyself if it is to survive the current world struggle.

The Commandment is just as applicable to nations as to individuals, Flemming said.

Flemming, now president of Ohio Wesleyan University, spoke for foreign assistance at ceremonies in which Secretary of Agriculture Benson presented awards to 182 Agriculture Department employes.

Canadian A-Reactor Contaminated, Closed

OTTAWA (AP)—An atomic test reactor that is probably the West's most powerful has been shut down for three or four weeks by an accident that contaminated its building.

No one was injured in the accident Saturday night to the 57 million reactor at Chalk River.

Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., which operates the huge project said a piece of uranium fuel rod caught fire after it was removed from the reactor.

3 Empty Chairs To Mark Meet Of Legislature

3 Republican Solons Called by Death Since Assembly Met Last

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three empty chairs will mark the toll of time when the Legislature returns in special session next month.

Two representatives and a senator died after the regular session of the 102nd General Assembly ended last June 18.

They were Reps. Walter T. Gardner of Bryan, Dailey R. Turner of Tiffin and Sen. Clarence Krueger of Berlin Heights, Erie County, all Republicans. Gardner headed the House Organization of State Government Committee.

But Republicans in both houses retain strong numerical majorities that may be called upon to hold the line on matters in GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill's call for a special session.

Minority Democrats indicate they will press for action on other items considered helpful to their party in this election year quest for votes.

Republicans will have 92 members in the House to 42 Democrats. In the Senate, there will be 21 Republicans to 12 Democrats if vacations and other activities do not cut attendance.

Twenty two of the lawmakers will be "lame ducks"—those who did not seek renomination in the May primaries or were defeated. Fourteen of them are Republicans and eight are Democrats.

Two democratic House members won senatorial nominations. They are Reps. Ray T. Miller and Eugene J. Sawacki, both of Cleveland.

An outstanding "lame duck" will be Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland), veteran chairman of the House Finance Committee and a representative since 1945.

Other retiring GOP chairmen of House committees are: T. K. Owens of Jackson, education; Cedric A. Stanley of Lebanon, reference; John J. Chester Jr. of Columbus, metropolitan areas, and Lytle G. Zuber of Columbus, military affairs.

Reps. Leslie M. Burge of Lorain, Republican Whip, and Robert L. Johnson of Medina, GOP member of the powerful Rules Committee, also are retiring.

Additional retiring republicans are: Reps. Harry D. Bellis of Delphos, Ray Miller of Paulding, Earl Jenkins of Ashley, Loretta Woods of Portsmouth, John J. Connors Jr. of Toledo, Arthur H. Milner of Leesburg and Virgil Perrill of Washington Court House, now in his eighth term.

Democrats are: Reps. Michael J. Crosser of Cleveland, Frank M. Gorman of Cleveland, Robert H. Longfellow of Greenville, Arthur H. Milleson of Freeport and John J. Lynch of Youngstown.

Retiring Democrat senators are: Joseph W. Bartunek, Senate minority leader; Andrew C. Putka and Frank D. Celebrezze, all of Cleveland.

Slayer of Amish To Die Sept. 8

MILLERSBURG (AP) — Cleo Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, must die in Ohio's electric chair Sept. 8, the Fifth District Court of Appeals has ruled. His attorneys said they expect to appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Peters and Michael Demoulin, 20, of Wooster, were convicted of murder in the mid-1957 slaying of Paul Coblentz, 25, a young Amish farmer, during a robbery. A three-judge court recommended mercy for Demoulin and he is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

The appellate court earlier this month turned down Peters' appeal from his conviction, but delayed setting a new date for execution.

Gluttonous Ohioan Nabbed by Police

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—A gunman from Ohio was in jail today because he wasn't satisfied with the amount of money in the office safe at a local market.

Patrolman Carl Wilcoxson was waiting as Donald D. Kling, 30, Findlay, walked out with about $1,000 in store receipts. Kling is held under $10,000 bond.

Manager David Rhoads said Kling might have been able to escape with the money from the safe but instead ordered him to get the cash from the checkout registers. Rhoads went for it and whispered to a visiting salesman that the store was being robbed. The salesman left the store and called police.

Passenger Car Sales Far Behind '57 Total

So far this year the auto industry has built about 1,867,000 cars. It has sold approximately 1,900,000. At the comparable point in 1957 output had reached 2,800,000 units and sales 2,500,000.

Flemming Asks U.S. To 'Love Neighbor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, soon to become secretary of health, education and welfare, believes the United States must observe the Commandment to love thy neighbor as thyself if it is to survive the current world struggle.

The Commandment is just as applicable to nations as to individuals, Flemming said.

Flemming, now president of Ohio Wesleyan University, spoke for foreign assistance at ceremonies in which Secretary of Agriculture Benson presented awards to 182 Agriculture Department employes.

Canadian A-Reactor Contaminated, Closed

OTTAWA (AP)—An atomic test reactor that is probably the West's most powerful has been shut down for three or four weeks by an accident that contaminated its building.

No one was injured in the accident Saturday night to the 57 million reactor at Chalk River.

Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., which operates the huge project said a piece of uranium fuel rod caught fire after it was removed from the reactor.

OHIO OUTDOORS
from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

On May 13, 14, and 15, physical education instructors representing 23 colleges and universities from some six midwestern states gathered at Lake Hope State Park, Vinton County, for an indoctrination course of instruction emphasizing safety in outdoor sports, such as hunting, fishing, camping, and boating.

Sponsored by the Outdoor Education Project of the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and the Ohio Department of Education, the conference had as its theme, "Where are We in Outdoor Education in Our Colleges and Universities."

Paul Landis of the State Department of Education was workshop director and he was assisted by some of the outstanding authorities in the country. Acting as instructors or consultants were such personalities as Julian W. Smith, director of the Outdoor Education Project of the sponsoring group; Paul Jones, secretary, National Assn. of Angling and Casting Clubs; Stan Mate, National Rifle Assn.; Homer Circle, vice president, James Heddon's Sons; Miss Jean Sanford, director, Outdoor Education and School Camping, Antioch College; Frank Trazise, sportsmen's Service Bureau and Reynold Carlson, professor, School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Indiana University.

Other instructors included Harold Green, supervisor of Firearms and Water Safety, Ohio Division of Wildlife; Shirley Trezise, gun handling; Charles Mand, Department of Physical Education, Ohio State University; Dick Fujita, national bait casting champion, and many others.

ALL THE three day conference, the educators learned as much about firearm safety, water safety, and proper approaches to teaching related subjects, such as hunting, fishing, and boating, as was possible to crowd into the time allotted.

While admittedly not intended to replace the competitive sports, the program does supplement and broaden the physical education program. Its aim is to establish all forms of outdoor education as a key part of the school curriculum.

It is apparent frm the attendance and enthusiasm shown by those present that educators have recognized the need for such a program. It's an opportunity to start youngsters on a wholesome, healthful, lifetime hobby.

A survey of current trends in park use will be conducted three days this summer to obtain information for future state park planning and development. V. W. Flickinger, Ohio parks chief, announced today.

On Memorial Day, July 20, and August 30, survey cards will be handed to the driver of each car entering the park areas. Survey cards will reveal how far people travel to state parks, what influenced them to visit the park area, how often each year they visit state park areas, and what they like and dislike about present accommodations.

Boxes where completed cards may be deposited will be located at convenient spots throughout the parks.

PARK areas which have been selected for the survey are: Delaware, East Harbor, Forked Run, Headlands Beach, Hocking Parks, Hueston Woods, Independence Dam, Indian Lake, John Bryan, Lake Hope, Loramie, Pike Lake, Punderson, Pymatuning, Rocky Fork.

One hundred twenty ducks of three species are swimming contentedly on an Olentangy Wildlife Area pond in Delaware County. Part of the "duck pioneering" project, they are will birds which were live trapped under special Fish and Wildlife Service permit to serve as brood stock.

These ducks, Redheads, Pintails Mallards, are the pioneers of a large duck population in Ohio regions which haven't had a nesting population in the past, if plans work out as expected. Scattered around the fenced pond are numerous laying houses where the ducks will lay their eggs. These will be collected at two or three intervals and custom hatched.

The young will be reared in the newly constructed 28 by 80 foot duck brooding building, recently completed, and held for additional brood stock.

Sixty-five feet of this building will be devoted to six rearing pens. A 6,000 gallon tank extending along one side of the rearing room, provides a "swimming pool" for the young ducks in each pen. Water is pumped from a nearby 4-acre pond.

One end of the building will house a six by ten foot egg cooling room, the pumping equipment and office space where project records will be kept.

THREE ponds, Nos. 11, 12 and 13, totalling 7 surface acres have been fenced for additional rearing and hardening space as the project grows and the number of ducks increases. Eventually, as many as 5,000 to 6,000 ducklings will be released annually. It is hoped that they will return to Ohio to nest.

Many of these species, the Redhead and Pintail, for example, are not natives of Ohio. If they are successfully established, Ohio hunters may look forward to better duck hunting.

Hay cutting time is ground hog time, says Bill Hendershot, game management supervisor for the Ohio Wildlife Division.

When farmers are harvesting the hay, ground hogs leave the wooded areas and fence rows to feed in the hay fields. There the woodchuck becomes a more visible target for ground hog hunters.

Chances are good, Hendershot says, that land owners will welcome sportsmen this season if they offer to help the farmer reduce the population of the small, hairy excavators.

Ground hog hunting requires real prowess, the game manager advises. The sharp eyes and alertness of the woodchuck have to be respected. Approaching the ground hog to close range requires careful stalking, Hendershot claims.

HE said if a hunter wants to get real sporty, try bagging a wary woodchuck with bow and arrow. This takes exceptional hunting skill.

Despite liberalized hunting of ground hogs with no closed seasons or bag limits, the ground hog appears to be as numerous in Ohio as ever.

"We haven't received complaints about the scarcity of ground hogs," Hendershot said. But many land owners have strong words for the rodent that digs dens in the darndest places.

"Beautiful Birds of Ohio," a 28-minute sound and color movie showing forty species of birds, is now available for group showing from Standard Oil Company of Ohio, Midland Bldg., Cleveland.

The movie was filmed by two of Ohio's most famous naturalists and photographic experts, Karl Maslowski and Woodrow Goodpaster of Cincinnati.

Herbert B. Eagon, Natural Resources Department director, today revealed the state's plans for improving camping facilities at East Harbor State Park in Ottawa County.

THE Director said preliminary plans call for the enlargement of an existing camp site, and creation of two new camping areas. A washhouse, to be built at the existing camp site, will provide shower and laundry facilities, a pressure water supply system and flush-type toilets.

"The two new camp sites, to be built on the southwest side of East Harbor Park, will have a water supply system, picnic tables and benches and pittype toilets", Eagon stated.

He said long range plans for East Harbor State Park will stress full development of camping facilities. As funds become available the new camp sites will be enlarged and there will be additional construction of water and sewerage systems and roads. Also, two other washhouses will be built.

Actual construction of camp sites is expected to get under way as soon as final plans and specifications can be developed.

Last year East Harbor State Park wa host to 888,000 persons, making it one of the most heavily used parks in the state.

For camping, East Harbor Park ranks first. Director Eagon said more people camped at East Harbor last year than at any other park ir Ohio.

FISHING experts today claim 90 per cent of the fish are caught by 10 per cent of the fishermen. The reason, they claim, is "know how."

In Ohio the Wildlife Division is attempting to change this situation so more people catch more fish. The most recent effort consists of a new 64-page publication called "Fishing's Fun for Everyone."

Edited by Merrill Gilfillan, magazine writer and 21-year veteran biologist, the Division's new publication is packed from bow to stern with information on how, when, where and what methods to use in taking fish from Buckeye State lakes and streams. Send 25 cents to Information and Education Section, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, for booklet.

Producer Sees Good Future For Live Television Drama

NEW YORK (AP) — "Television drama isn't dead," says David Susskind. "Just bad television drama is dead."

Susskind, a TV producer of boundless energy, has absolute faith in the magic and power of live, adult drama. He'll be even more active as the head of Talent Associates, Ltd., next season.

On June 12 he'll present the last of this season's 90-minute "Show of the Month" (CBS-TV) series, Carson McCuller's "A Member of the Wedding," a Broadway hit.

Next season Talent Associates will produce seven live dramas for "Show of the Month." It also will offer at least nine special programs, including "The Swiss Women," 26 live "Circle Theater" productions, and it has two live series up for option.

Since Talent Associates took over "Kraft Theater" several weeks ago, that drama series has had new life with such outstanding productions as the two-part "All the King's Men." Yet "Kraft Theater" is leaving television in September. So are "Studio One" and "Climax." "Matinee Theater dies next month.

Susskind believes there are three reasons for the decline of live drama:

1. "The hour shows on the air have slipped badly in quality and excitement. For a long time they've been going down hill in scripts and production and the public is becoming relatively bored with them."

2. "We're in an economic recession. Because a live drama series carries a big price tag, advertisers are looking for cheaper shows."

3. "Television has become psychotically conformist. When a trend begins, the boys leave their psychiatrists' couches and rush about, following the trend to westerns or quiz series or a private eye series or whatever it may be."

Susskind feels, however, that "A first-rate drama still is the best sales medium for an advertiser. It puts over a message. A sponsor who stakes out new grounds on television stakes out new customers for his product. Distinctive programming always gets good results."

Ohio Idle Pay Is Delayed By Holiday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some 20,000 persons drawing state unemployment benefits, about one-fifth of those filing claims, will have their weekly check delayed a week because of the Memorial Day holiday.

James Tichenor, director of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, said Tuesday the 20,000 normally report their status on Friday. But this Friday, Memorial Day, BUC offices throughout the state will be closed.

He said, however, that the following week they can file for two weeks and then receive a double benefit check.

Tichenor said he arrived at this plane because he felt if he attempted to reschedule the Friday claimants throughout the first four days of this week, the added load would disturb the cycle for all of the unemployed.

He explained that by having the 20,000 wait a week, although financially difficult for them, the inconvenience will only last about four or five days. But if they were rescheduled, he said he feared the operation of his office would be disturbed for nearly a month.

He said the office is now working at its capacity and machines are in operation 18 hours a day.

OHIO OUTDOORS
from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

On May 13, 14, and 15, physical education instructors representing 23 colleges and universities from some six midwestern states gathered at Lake Hope State Park, Vinton County, for an indoctrination course of instruction emphasizing safety in outdoor sports, such as hunting, fishing, camping, and boating.

Sponsored by the Outdoor Education Project of the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and the Ohio Department of Education, the conference had as its theme, "Where are We in Outdoor Education in Our Colleges and Universities."

Paul Landis of the State Department of Education was workshop director and he was assisted by some of the outstanding authorities in the country. Acting as instructors or consultants were such personalities as Julian W. Smith, director of the Outdoor Education Project of the sponsoring group; Paul Jones, secretary, National Assn. of Angling and Casting Clubs; Stan Mate, National Rifle Assn.; Homer Circle, vice president, James Heddon's Sons; Miss Jean Sanford, director, Outdoor Education and School Camping, Antioch College; Frank Trazise, sportsmen's Service Bureau and Reynold Carlson, professor, School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, Indiana University.

Other instructors included Harold Green, supervisor of Firearms and Water Safety, Ohio Division of Wildlife; Shirley Trezise, gun handling; Charles Mand, Department of Physical Education, Ohio State University; Dick Fujita, national bait casting champion, and many others.

ALL THE three day conference, the educators learned as much about firearm safety, water safety, and proper approaches to teaching related subjects, such as hunting, fishing, and boating, as was possible to crowd into the time allotted.

While admittedly not intended to replace the competitive sports, the program does supplement and broaden the physical education program. Its aim is to establish all forms of outdoor education as a key part of the school curriculum.

It is apparent frm the attendance and enthusiasm shown by those present that educators have recognized the need for such a program. It's an opportunity to start youngsters on a wholesome, healthful, lifetime hobby.

A survey of current trends in park use will be conducted three days this summer to obtain information for future state park planning and development. V. W. Flickinger, Ohio parks chief, announced today.

On Memorial Day, July 20, and August 30, survey cards will be handed to the driver of each car entering the park areas. Survey cards will reveal how far people travel to state parks, what influenced them to visit the park area, how often each year they visit state park areas, and what they like and dislike about present accommodations.

Boxes where completed cards may be deposited will be located at convenient spots throughout the parks.

PARK areas which have been selected for the survey are: Delaware, East Harbor, Forked Run, Headlands Beach, Hocking Parks, Hueston Woods, Independence Dam, Indian Lake, John Bryan, Lake Hope, Loramie, Pike Lake, Punderson, Pymatuning, Rocky Fork.

One hundred twenty ducks of three species are swimming contentedly on an Olentangy Wildlife Area pond in Delaware County. Part of the "duck pioneering" project, they are will birds which were live trapped under special Fish and Wildlife Service permit to serve as brood stock.

These ducks, Redheads, Pintails Mallards, are the pioneers of a large duck population in Ohio regions which haven't had a nesting population in the past, if plans work out as expected. Scattered around the fenced pond are numerous laying houses where the ducks will lay their eggs. These will be collected at two or three intervals and custom hatched.

The young will be reared in the newly constructed 28 by 80 foot duck brooding building, recently completed, and held for additional brood stock.

Sixty-five feet of this building will be devoted to six rearing pens. A 6,000 gallon tank extending along one side of the rearing room, provides a "swimming pool" for the young ducks in each pen. Water is pumped from a nearby 4-acre pond.

One end of the building will house a six by ten foot egg cooling room, the pumping equipment and office space where project records will be kept.

THREE ponds, Nos. 11, 12 and 13, totalling 7 surface acres have been fenced for additional rearing and hardening space as the project grows and the number of ducks increases. Eventually, as many as 5,000 to 6,000 ducklings will be released annually. It is hoped that they will return to Ohio to nest.

Many of these species, the Redhead and Pintail, for example, are not natives of Ohio. If they are successfully established, Ohio hunters may look forward to better duck hunting.

Hay cutting time is ground hog time, says Bill Hendershot, game management supervisor for the Ohio Wildlife Division.

When farmers are harvesting the hay, ground hogs leave the wooded areas and fence rows to feed in the hay fields. There the woodchuck becomes a more visible target for ground hog hunters.

Chances are good, Hendershot says, that land owners will welcome sportsmen this season if they offer to help the farmer reduce the population of the small, hairy excavators.

Ground hog hunting requires real prowess, the game manager advises. The sharp eyes and alertness of the woodchuck have to be respected. Approaching the ground hog to close range requires careful stalking, Hendershot claims.

HE said if a hunter wants to get real sporty, try bagging a wary woodchuck with bow and arrow. This takes exceptional hunting skill.

Despite liberalized hunting of ground hogs with no closed seasons or bag limits, the ground hog appears to be as numerous in Ohio as ever.

"We haven't received complaints about the scarcity of ground hogs," Hendershot said. But many land owners have strong words for the rodent that digs dens in the darndest places.

"Beautiful Birds of Ohio," a 28-minute sound and color movie showing forty species of birds, is now available for group showing from Standard Oil Company of Ohio, Midland Bldg., Cleveland.

The movie was filmed by two of Ohio's most famous naturalists and photographic experts, Karl Maslowski and Woodrow Goodpaster of Cincinnati.

Herbert B. Eagon, Natural Resources Department director, today revealed the state's plans for improving camping facilities at East Harbor State Park in Ottawa County.

THE Director said preliminary plans call for the enlargement of an existing camp site, and creation of two new camping areas. A washhouse, to be built at the existing camp site, will provide shower and laundry facilities, a pressure water supply system and flush-type toilets.

"The two new camp sites, to be built on the southwest side of East Harbor Park, will have a water supply system, picnic tables and benches and pittype toilets", Eagon stated.

He said long range plans for East Harbor State Park will stress full development of camping facilities. As funds become available the new camp sites will be enlarged and there will be additional construction of water and sewerage systems and roads. Also, two other washhouses will be built.

Actual construction of camp sites is expected to get under way as soon as final plans and specifications can be developed.

Last year East Harbor State Park wa host to 888,000 persons, making it one of the most heavily used parks in the state.

For camping, East Harbor Park ranks first. Director Eagon said more people camped at East Harbor last year than at any other park ir Ohio.

FISHING experts today claim 90 per cent of the fish are caught by 10 per cent of the fishermen. The reason, they claim, is "know how."

In Ohio the Wildlife Division is attempting to change this situation so more people catch more fish. The most recent effort consists of a new 64-page publication called "Fishing's Fun for Everyone."

Edited by Merrill Gilfillan, magazine writer and 21-year veteran biologist, the Division's new publication is packed from bow to stern with information on how, when, where and what methods to use in taking fish from Buckeye State lakes and streams. Send 25 cents to Information and Education Section, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, for booklet.

Producer Sees Good Future For Live Television Drama

NEW YORK (AP) — "Television drama isn't dead," says David Susskind. "Just bad television drama is dead."

Susskind, a TV producer of boundless energy, has absolute faith in the magic and power of live, adult drama. He'll be even more active as the head of Talent Associates, Ltd., next season.

On June 12 he'll present the last of this season's 90-minute "Show of the Month" (CBS-TV) series, Carson McCuller's "A Member of the Wedding," a Broadway hit.

Next season Talent Associates will produce seven live dramas for "Show of the Month." It also will offer at least nine special programs, including "The Swiss Women," 26 live "Circle Theater" productions, and it has two live series up for option.

Since Talent Associates took over "Kraft Theater" several weeks ago, that drama series has had new life with such outstanding productions as the two-part "All the King's Men." Yet "Kraft Theater" is leaving television in September. So are "Studio One" and "Climax." "Matinee Theater dies next month.

Susskind believes there are three reasons for the decline of live drama:

1. "The hour shows on the air have slipped badly in quality and excitement. For a long time they've been going down hill in scripts and production and the public is becoming relatively bored with them."

2. "We're in an economic recession. Because a live drama series carries a big price tag, advertisers are looking for cheaper shows."

3. "Television has become psychotically conformist. When a trend begins, the boys leave their psychiatrists' couches and rush about, following the trend to westerns or quiz series or a private eye series or whatever it may be."

Susskind feels, however, that "A first-rate drama still is the best sales medium for an advertiser. It puts over a message. A sponsor who stakes out new grounds on television stakes out new customers for his product. Distinctive programming always gets good results."

Man's Body Made Of Many Elements

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
County Home Economics Agent

At times we might all wonder—"How did I get this way? What made me the person I am?

There is that reasonable belief by many that we are what we eat. This eating requires a daily intake of many nutritious items. These are just naturally included in meals which contain a variety of colorful vegetables, fruits, cereals and meats.

If one would make a complete study of all the processes, powers and principles which make them "tick" nutritionally, they would be splendid commercial agents for the A, B, C's of good eatings.

Once upon a time there was a curious chemical character, who, after being confronted with the musts and shoulds of food items, declared time off to do some comprehensive calculations on what a man is made of. His findings were as follows:

A MAN weighing 150 pounds contains approximately 3,500 cubic feet of gas (oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen) which, at 80 cents per thousand cubic feet would be worth $2.80. He also contains sufficient fat to make a fifteen pound candle or seven bars of soap.

Thus it will be seen that he possesses considerable sanitary as well as illuminating possibilities.

In his system will be found 22 pounds and 10 ounces of carbon—enough to make 780 lead pencils. The iron in his blood stream amounts to about 50 grains, and the rest of his body would supply enough to suspend him by his coat collar.

A healthy man contains 54 ounces of phosphorus, a sufficient quantity of the deadly element to make 800,000 matches or poison 50 persons. This, with two ounces of lime, make the stiff bones and the brain.

No matter how sour his disposition, he contains about 60 cubes of sugar and 20 spoonfuls of salt. If he were distilled into water, he would just about fill a ten-gallon cask, representing more than half his entire weight.

In addition to the above valuable chemicals, the body contains enough starch to stiffen four dozen collars, enough potassium to fire a toy canon, enough magnesium to photograph a banquet by flashlight, enough sulphur to rid a St. Bernard dog of fleas and enough hydrochloric acid to clean the kitchen sink.

BREAK one thousand eggs, including the shells, into a huge basin, and you have all the materials necessary to make the body of a man from his toe nails to the most delicate tissues of his brain.

Whether all this is true or not, this chemical word-picture should convince us that, like the Psalmist said, "We are fearfully and wonderfully made". We could be described as a human omelet!

Penalty Rate Is Listed on Excess Wheat

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a marketing quota penalty rate of $1.09 per bushel on "excess" wheat of the 1958 crop.

As directed by law, the rate of the marketing quota penalty is 45 per cent of the parity price per bushel of wheat as of May 1 of the calender year in which the crop is harvested. The current parity price for wheat is $2.42 per bushel.

Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1958 wheat crop on June 20, 1957. When wheat marketing quotas are in effect, a farmer who does not comply with the wheat acreage allotment established for his farm is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess, unless he harvests 15 acres or less or has signed an agreement permitting him to prodcce up to 30 acres of wheat for feed use on the farm.

Wheat produced on a farm having a farm marketing excess is not eligiblt for price support.

The national average minimum support price for 1958 crop wheat is $1.78 per bushel, which was 75 per cent of the April 1957 parity price with a transitional adjustment. The final average support price for the 1958 crop will be 75 per cent of effective parity as of July 1, 1958, if this is higher.

Fly Fighting Time Is Here

An unwelcome visitor that begins to appear on every farm this time of year is the common housefly. Knowledge of the fly's characteristics and habits may help farmers reduce the number of these unwelcome visitors and cut short their stay.

Entomologists tell us that the average life of the housefly is 19 days, but it is a prolific few days he lives, for he may multiply himself many thousand times over. As many as 6,600,000 bacteria have been found on the body of one fly at one time.

Being such an accomplished carrier of disease undoubtedly qualifies the fly as one of the most dangerous living creatures on wing or foot.

Flies will travel from a few yards to perhaps 13 miles to feed and lay eggs. Most flies live and die within an area about the size of a city block.

THUS, fly control is a problem that can be handled effectively on the farm with a good individual fly control program.

Flies are busy creatures. In one day's work they may make stops at garbage buckets, manure piles, dead animals, in kitchens and on dinner tables. Aside from the health problems they pose, they also are very costly.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture has estimated that insects, including flies, cost Wisconsin livestock and poultry farmers more than 613 million dollars a year. This estimated loss includes the actual damage insects cause in livestock and poultry, plus all the expense of fighting them.

Camp Session Set At Tar Hollow Site

Now is the time for homemakers to plan to attend the 20th annual camp session. This has been scheduled for July 12, 13 and 14 at Tar Hollow.

A program has been planned which should "suit the taste" of homemaker who would like to take advantage of this short-course vacation.

Insect Alert

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

Insect repellents can be used safely to protect you from mosquitoes and biting flies. In recent years many excellent repellents have replaced the oil of citronella.

The materials are conveniently prepared in aerosols, or as liquids and have no disagreeable odor. Whether you are gardening, fishing, farming or just loafing, you should try one of these new repellents. You'll be glad you did.

Tent caterpillars are showing up in some sections. They form a tent - like structure within which they live and feed. Shade trees and fruit trees both are involved, but damage usually is not serious.

Almost any kind of spray schedule will eliminate these pests from orchards. Malathion, DDT or lead arsenate can be used if the problem exists in backyard trees.

Feed Wheat Rule Date Is Extended Until June 6

According to public law 85-203, feed wheat exemption provisions have been set up for the 1958 crop of wheat.

This exempts producers from any obligation under this act to pay the penalty on, deliver to the Secretary, or store the farm marketing excess with respect to any farm for any crop of wheat harvested in 1958 to be used for feed.

The total wheat acreage should not exceed 30 acres. None of such crop of wheat is removed from the farm except to be processed for use as human food or livestock feed on such farm and none of such crop is sold or exchanged for goods or services.

The extire crop of wheat is used on such farm for seed, human food, or feed for livestock, including poultry, owned by any such producer, or a subsequent owner or operator of the farm.

THE producers and their successors must comply with all regulations prescribed by the secretary.

Any person interested in the feed exemption law must sign an application by June 6, 1958.

Walnut FFA Chapter Meet Hosts 8th Grade Students

By Glenn LaRue
FFA News Reporter

The eighth grade boys from Walnut and Madison schools were guests at the regular meeting of the Walnut FFA Chapter.

Several of the chapter members gave talks on farming goals to strive for to be a green hand, chapter farmer, state farmer, and American farmer.

Adviser, H. D. Coffman announced that Roger Schneider of the Walnut chapter had been selected to reveive the State Farmer Award at the spring convention at Ohio State University.

BOWMEN -Beasley Inc., Circleville Ford Tractor Dealer, awarded Glenn LaRue an FFA Camp Scholarship for outstanding work in vocational agriculture. The chapter also presented Glenn an award for scoring highest in dairy judging.

After the business meeting the guests, chapter members, and the adviser enjoyed homemade ice cream and cookies.

Sheep Dipping Is Urged Here To Prevent Scab Quarantine

Ohio is facing a sheep scab quarantine situation if the state cannot get the cooperation of all sheepmen to dip sheep and lambs, Pickaway County Agent George Hamrick said today.

Since January 1, 1958, 46 cases of sheep scab have been reported, with 24 counties involved, the agent said.

It is very important that farmers get a qualified dipper, one who will follow complete recommendations for controlling scab, ticks, lice and fly strikes, Hamrick noted. It is possible that sheepmen may contact a dipper for a small charge. If they do, it is possible that all they are doing is giving the sheep a bath and are giving no control of the above mentioned parasites, he added.

Sheep dipping will prove profitable to sheepmen. It will control blood sucking ticks that restrict lamb growth and ewe vigor. Dipping will improve the wool clip and also control fly strikes and maggots.

THE Pickaway County Sheep Improvement Assn. has contacted Lester Brown, Cardington, to conduct a sheep dipping program here. He is an approved sheep dipper and has authority to issue to sheepmen a certificate.

The value of this certificate will permit the farmer to realize the quality of dipping service he has received. This certificate can be presented to purchasers showing that the sheep have been properly dipped.

It is very important that all sheep be dipped to insure a healthy sheep program in the state. Brown will arrive in Pickaway County June 1 to begin with the sheep dipping program.

All county sheepmen interested in dipping service should contact members of the Sheep Improvement Committee or Hamrick at the extension office in the Circleville Postoffice.

Farm Outlook Appears Good For Future

More farm construction, with better homes for farm families, better shelter for livestock and improved storage facilities for machinery and grain. That's the prospect in coming years says J. L. Morrison, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration.

Recently, as an anti-recession measure, his agency expanded its farm housing loan program to the fullest extent possible under existing laws set up by Congress.

Morrison reports that the agency has $400 million available nationally which can be used over the next three years for farm housing loans. He said there is no specified limitation on the amount which can be loaned in any one state or community.

In addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help a farm owner repair and update buildings. For example, he may wish to add a bathroom including a waste disposal system, modernize the kitchen, add an extra bedroom, improve the heating, insulation and electric wiring, put a basement under the house, and cement floors in service buildings or paint the house and service buildings.

Beef Day Set For June 5 At Hoytville

The highlight of the summer for beef cattle men is beef day sponsored by the Agriculture Experiment Station. According to Pickaway County Agricultural Agent George Hamrick, this year's beef day will be held at the Hoytville Northwestern Substation June 5.

The beef work conducted there which will be viewed and discussed by beef day visitors includes: results of experiments of indoor vs. outdoor housing, value of corn silage, implantation of stilbestrol and a combination of stilbestrol and testosterone in fattening heifers and surfacing materials for outside lots.

Hamrick said demonstrations will be made with the implantation of stilbestrol and a discussion of feeding stilbestrol and implantation of synovex.

DR. EARLE W. Klosterman will review results of experiments on self-feeding different ratios of pelleted alfalfa hay and ground ear corn to fattening steers, value of tranquilizers in fattening cattle, rations, and Charolaise cross cattle.

The beef day program will begin promptly at 9:30 a. m. and will conclude at 3:30 p. m.

Orphan Pigs Can Be Raised

Dry Milk Replacer Makes Good Feeding

One interesting contradiction of efficient hog farming comes in the fact that as the farmer's feeding and management programs become more efficient, he is often faced with a growing problem of caring for orphan pigs.

Good hog farmers feed their sows for maximum pig production, sometimes with such good results that the sows have more pigs than "plates" to feed their litters. When a sow produces more than twelve or thirteen healthy pigs in a litter, usually those in excess of that number have to be taken from her and raised as orphas. White this presents a problem, it is a profitable problem that any hog farmer should welcome.

During the first three weeks, a dry milk replacer should be kept in front of the orphan pigs. Some hog farmers are tempted to make a gruel of the milk replacer, but it seems certain that wet feeding will kill more orphan pigs than starvation from a dry ration. Wet feeding creates chilling from extra moisture in the bedding. Plenty of fresh water should be kept in front of the pigs in separate waterers at all times.

The pigs may squeal awhile in their comfortable dry pens, and at first refuse to eat the dry milk replacer, but they will come to it in good time. Many good hog farmers teach their pigs to eat dry feed by catching each pig and feeding it with a spoon for a few days.

IN ADDITION to the milk replacer, they should be offered a pelleted baby pig ration beginning with the second week. During the second and third weeks they should have both these feeds in front of them, along with plenty of fresh water.

At the end of the third week the milk replacer should be taken away, leaving only the baby pig ration through the sixth week. By that time the orphan pigs should be far enough along to go on a regular balanced pig starter feed.

Stoc-O-Las

A Truly Dry Cane Molasses

In Easy-To-Handle Pelleted Form For

SILAGE PRESERVATIVE

6 Good Reasons For Using Stoc-O-Las:

1. Molasses helps make the finest grass silage. STOC-O-LAS PELLETS are 85% equivalent in sugars to blackstrap molasses.
2. Chemical preservatives have no feeding value. Experiments have proven that 75% of the nutritional value of molasses stays in the finished silage.
3. STOC-O-LAS PELLETS dissolve slowly. Juices cannot flush away as much of the sugars as with wet molasses or fine molasses meal.
4. STOC-O-LAS PELLETS and silage move together into the silo resulting in a better mix, prevents blower action which scatters fine molasses meal.
5. No trouble with wind scattering STOC-O-LAS PELLETS. Simply spread over loads of green cut grass and legumes.
6. STOC-O-LAS PELLETS are ideal for trench or bunker silos. PELLETS stay where you put them. No sticky feet or rolling up on equipment.

USE STOC-O-LAS PELLETS IN YOUR SILO THIS YEAR — YOU'LL WANT IT NEXT YEAR, TOO.

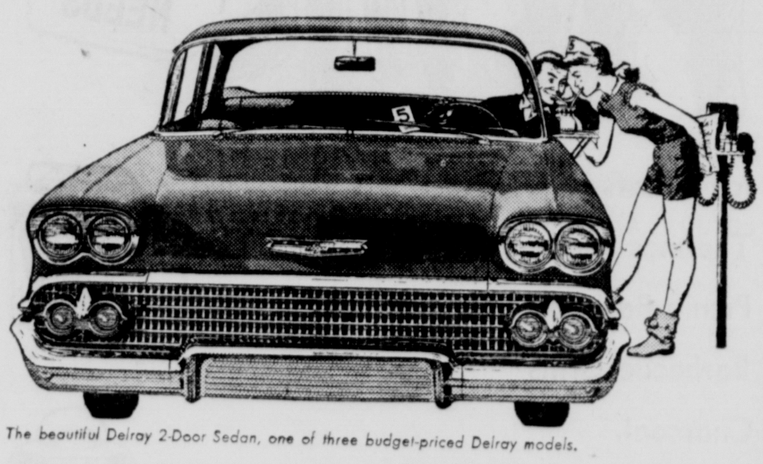

USAGE RECOMMENDATIONS:

60-70 lbs. per ton on soybeans.
60-70 lbs. per ton on alfalfa.

Man's Body Made Of Many Elements

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
County Home Economics Agent

At times we might all wonder—"How did I get this way? What made me the person I am?

There is that reasonable belief by many that we are what we eat. This eating requires a daily intake of many nutritious items. These are just naturally included in meals which contain a variety of colorful vegetables, fruits, cereals and meats.

If one would make a complete study of all the processes, powers and principles which make them "tick" nutritionally, they would be splendid commercial agents for the A, B, C's of good eatings.

Once upon a time there was a curious chemical character, who, after being confronted with the musts and shoulds of food items, declared time off to do some comprehensive calculations on what a man is made of. His findings were as follows:

A MAN weighing 150 pounds contains approximately 3,500 cubic feet of gas (oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen) which, at 80 cents per thousand cubic feet would be worth $2.80. He also contains sufficient fat to make a fifteen pound candle or seven bars of soap.

Thus it will be seen that he possesses considerable sanitary as well as illuminating possibilities.

In his system will be found 22 pounds and 10 ounces of carbon—enough to make 780 lead pencils. The iron in his blood stream amounts to about 50 grains, and the rest of his body would supply enough to suspend him by his coat collar.

A healthy man contains 54 ounces of phosphorus, a sufficient quantity of the deadly element to make 800,000 matches or poison 50 persons. This, with two ounces of lime, make the stiff bones and the brain.

No matter how sour his disposition, he contains about 60 cubes of sugar and 20 spoonfuls of salt. If he were distilled into water, he would just about fill a ten-gallon cask, representing more than half his entire weight.

In addition to the above valuable chemicals, the body contains enough starch to stiffen four dozen collars, enough potassium to fire a toy canon, enough magnesium to photograph a banquet by flashlight, enough sulphur to rid a St. Bernard dog of fleas and enough hydrochloric acid to clean the kitchen sink.

BREAK one thousand eggs, including the shells, into a huge basin, and you have all the materials necessary to make the body of a man from his toe nails to the most delicate tissues of his brain.

Whether all this is true or not, this chemical word-picture should convince us that, like the Psalmist said, "We are fearfully and wonderfully made". We could be described as a human omelet!

Penalty Rate Is Listed on Excess Wheat

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a marketing quota penalty rate of $1.09 per bushel on "excess" wheat of the 1958 crop.

As directed by law, the rate of the marketing quota penalty is 45 per cent of the parity price per bushel of wheat as of May 1 of the calender year in which the crop is harvested. The current parity price for wheat is $2.42 per bushel.

Growers approved marketing quotas for the 1958 wheat crop on June 20, 1957. When wheat marketing quotas are in effect, a farmer who does not comply with the wheat acreage allotment established for his farm is subject to a penalty on his farm marketing excess, unless he harvests 15 acres or less or has signed an agreement permitting him to produce up to 30 acres of wheat for feed use on the farm.

The national average minimum support price for 1958 crop wheat is $1.78 per bushel, which was 75 per cent of the April 1957 parity price with a transitional adjustment. The final average support price for the 1958 crop will be 75 per cent of effective parity as of July 1, 1958, if this is higher.

Fly Fighting Time Is Here

An unwelcome visitor that begins to appear on every farm this time of year is the common housefly. Knowledge of the fly's characteristics and habits may help farmers reduce the number of these unwelcome visitors and cut short their stay.

Entomologists tell us that the average life of the housefly is 19 days, but it is a prolific few days he lives, for he may multiply himself many thousand times over. As many as 6,600,000 bacteria have been found on the body of one fly at one time.

Being such an accomplished carrier of disease undoubtedly qualifies the fly as one of the most dangerous living creatures on wing or foot.

Flies will travel from a few yards to perhaps 13 miles to feed and lay eggs. Most flies live and die within an area about the size of a city block.

THUS, fly control is a problem that can be handled effectively on the farm with a good individual fly control program.

Flies are busy creatures. In one day's work they may make stops at garbage buckets, manure piles, dead animals, in kitchens and on dinner tables. Aside from the health problems they pose, they also are very costly.

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture has estimated that insects, including flies, cost Wisconsin livestock and poultry farmers more than 613 million dollars a year. This estimated loss includes the actual damage insects cause in livestock and poultry, plus all the expense of fighting them.

Camp Session Set At Tar Hollow Site

Now is the time for homemakers to plan to attend the 20th annual camp session. This has been scheduled for July 12, 13 and 14 at Tar Hollow.

A program has been planned which should "suit the taste" of homemaker who would like to take advantage of this short-course vacation.

Insect Alert

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

Insect repellents can be used safely to protect you from mosquitoes and biting flies. In recent years many excellent repellents have replaced the oil of citronella.

The materials are conveniently prepared in aerosols, or as liquids and have no disagreeable odor. Whether you are gardening, fishing, farming or just loafing, you should try one of these new repellents. You'll be glad you did.

Tent caterpillars are showing up in some sections. They form a tent - like structure within which they live and feed. Shade trees and fruit trees both are involved, but damage usually is not serious.

Almost any kind of spray schedule will eliminate these pests from orchards. Malathion, DDT or lead arsenate can be used if the problem exists in backyard trees.

According to public law 85-203, feed wheat exemption provisions have been set up for the 1958 crop of wheat.

This exempts producers from any obligation under this act to pay the penalty on, deliver to the Secretary, or store the farm marketing excess with respect to any farm for any crop of wheat harvested in 1958 to be used for feed.

The total wheat acreage should not exceed 30 acres. None of such crop of wheat is removed from the farm except to be processed for use as human food or livestock feed on such farm and none of such crop is sold or exchanged for goods or services.

The extire crop of wheat is used on such farm for seed, human food, or feed for livestock, including poultry, owned by any such producer, or a subsequent owner or operator of the farm.

THE producers and their successors must comply with all regulations prescribed by the secretary.

Any person interested in the feed exemption law must sign an application by June 6, 1958.

Sheep Dipping Is Urged Here To Prevent Scab Quarantine

Ohio is facing a sheep scab quarantine situation if the state cannot get the cooperation of all sheepmen to dip sheep and lambs, Pickaway County Agent George Hamrick said today.

Since January 1, 1958, 46 cases of sheep scab have been reported, with 24 counties involved, the agent said.

It is very important that farmers get a qualified dipper, one who will follow complete recommendations for controlling scab, ticks, lice and fly strikes, Hamrick noted. It is possible that sheepmen may contact a dipper for a small charge. If they do, it is possible that all they are doing is giving the sheep a bath and are giving no control of the above mentioned parasites, he added.

Sheep dipping will prove profitable to sheepmen. It will control blood sucking ticks that restrict lamb growth and ewe vigor. Dipping will improve the wool clip and also control fly strikes and maggots.

THE Pickaway County Sheep Improvement Assn. has contacted Lester Brown, Cardington, to conduct a sheep dipping program here. He is an approved sheep dipper and has authority to issue to sheepmen a certificate.

The value of this certificate will permit the farmer to realize the quality of dipping service he has received. This certificate can be presented to purchasers showing that the sheep have been properly dipped.

It is very important that all sheep be dipped to insure a healthy sheep program in the state. Brown will arrive in Pickaway County June 1 to begin with the sheep dipping program.

All county sheepmen interested in dipping service should contact members of the Sheep Improvement Committee or Hamrick at the extension office in the Circleville Postoffice.

Farm Outlook Appears Good For Future

More farm construction, with better homes for farm families, better shelter for livestock and improved storage facilities for machinery and grain. That's the prospect in coming years says J. L. Morrison, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration.

Recently, as an anti-recession measure, his agency expanded its farm housing loan program to the fullest extent possible under existing laws set up by Congress.

Morrison reports that the agency has $400 million available nationally which can be used over the next three years for farm housing loans. He said there is no specified limitation on the amount which can be loaned in any one state or community.

In addition to financing major construction, the loan funds can help a farm owner repair and update buildings. For example, he may wish to add a bathroom including a waste disposal system, modernize the kitchen, add an extra bedroom, improve the heating, insulation and electric wiring, put a basement under the house, and cement floors in service buildings or paint the house and service buildings.

Information regarding farm loans and other services of the Farmers Home Administration can be obtained by contacting the unit office at 27½ E. Second St., Chillicothe.

Unknown Soldier Never Unattended

WASHINGTON (AP)—Never for a moment in 21 years—despite wars, storms, heat or cold—has America's Unknown Soldier of World War I been left unattended.

A 24-hour vigil has been kept at this tomb since 1937 as a sacred trust. Prior to that, from the entombment in 1921, an honor guard had mounted watch only in daytime.

The nation, for which this unidentified man gave his life, picks the best of its Army infantrymen for the signal honor of walking a lonely post in a cemetery with 97,000 dead.

Through the years, the routine has become rigid.

The cadence is 128 steps per minute. The sentry takes 21 steps from one end of the post to the other and pauses at each end. He carries a .30 caliber M-1 rifle with a chrome-plated bayonet. He wears Army dress uniform—blue in winter, tan tropical worsted in summer—and white gloves.

None of this routine will be changed when two more unknown servicemen are buried nearby on Friday.

None of the candidates can have any physical disability or disciplinary action on his record. A tomb guard must be between 5 feet 11 and 6 feet 2.

During periods that Arlington is open, guards are changed hourly. At night, and when the cemetery is closed, the shifts run two hours.

Ohio Assembly Call Hinted For June 30

COLUMBUS (AP) — A special session of the Ohio Legislature, called mainly to act on a proposed extension of the maximum period for paying state unemployment benefits, is expected to be called for the week of June 30.

Gov. C. William O'Neill made this announcement Tuesday after a conference with Senate and House leaders of both parties. He announced:

"I cannot tell you definitely when the special session will be called. It is my present plan that it will be the week of June 30 by which time I hope the Ohio Supreme Court will have decided the merits of the question of the legality of Supplemental Unemployment Benefits in Ohio."

Labor leaders have been clamoring for the special legislative session to legalize SUB payments where they supposedly are in conflict with Ohio's unemployment compensation law. O'Neill has said he wants the Supreme Court to determine if SUB already is legal under state statute.

He said Tuesday it was his opinion that once the unemployment compensation question comes up in the special session, all matters pertaining to jobless pay, including SUB, could be considered.

He added: "So it is my considered judgment that before a special session is called, there should be a court decision on supplemental unemployment benefits. I'm sure it will be within a relatively short time."

Workers

LORAIN (AP)—Within the next 10 days 400 workers will be recalled to the National Tube Division of U.S. Steel Corp. here. That will leave 3,500 men stil laid off, the company said.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Art Deal Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Roof wish to express their appreciation to all who responded to the recent appeal for blood donors. More is still needed. Mrs. Roof is feeling stronger again and hopes to come home soon.

The Spring Conference of the Veteran's of Foreign Wars was held at Logan, Sunday. Those attending from the Ashville Post and auxiliary were Mr. and Mrs. Gale Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey DeLong, Bert Green, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher and Mrs. Joann England.

Bonnie and Sonny Sawyer were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Egbert of Shadeville. They attended Sunday School and church at Shadeville.

Ashville Community Daily Vacation Bible School will begin Monday morning June 2 and continue each weekday through June 13. Pre-registration cards have been sent home with most of the children from either Sunday School or school.

They ask that these be sent in as soon as possible. If your child did not receive one you may register the child on opening day.

As the Bible School is too large for any one church they have arranged to meet as follows: Nursery and Kindergarten (ages 3,4,5 and 6, if pre-school) in the Methodist Church. Mrs. Tom Purcell is department superintendent.

Primary (1st, 2nd and 3rd grade in school this past year) in the Lutheran Church. Mrs. Felix Dore is department superintendent. Juniors and Intermediates (4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades) in the Evangelical United Brethren Church. Mrs. Guy Cline is department superintendent.

Teachers are needed in all departments. If you would like to help please contact anyone of the department superintendents or Mrs. Virgil Close, director. The committee asks that all school age children bring their own crayons and scissors. These supplies will be furnished for pre - schoolers.

The theme for 1958 is "God's Holy Laws". This is a study of the Ten Commandments. The aims of this course are "to lead children to a realization of God as Maker and Ruler of all things and to encourage children to learn and obey God's laws out of love for Him." (Quoted from Superintendent's Guide on "God's Holy Laws".)

As in the past, an offering will be taken each morning. This will be for the expenses of the school and a certain sum for a mission project. This mission project has not, as yet, been decided upon.

The American Legion and auxiliary will sponsor their round and square dances again this year in the Ashville Community Park begining June 5 at 8:30 p.m. During intermission there will be cake walks featuring home-made cakes donated by members. Ralph Huston and his band will play. The dances will be held weekly on Thursday nights.

A clinic for pre-school first graders was held Monday morning in the grade school building with 29 children attending. Eye, teeth, hearing and speech examinations were given each child. All immunization shots were given through the Pickaway County Health Department to any child upon request from the parent. Mrs. Helen Pickens, County Health Nurse, supervised the program. Anyone not reveiving the tests Monday may do so upon enrolling their child next September. A new stipulation has been set up by the Teays Valley School Board concerning all first grade children in this district. The child must be 6 years old upon entering school next September and a test may be given to all children whose birthdays occur between Sept. 2anl Nov. 1 to determine if they may enroll this year also. The old ruling was that a child mist be 6 before November 1.

Mrs. Everett Peters, Route 1, Ashville, was taken to White Cross Hospital Saturday to undergo treatment and observation. Her room number is 344.

The Bastian Funeral Home reports the following ambulance runs this week: Monday, Robert Blankenship, Chillicothe, was taken to Childrens Hospital after suddenly becoming ill in South Bloomfield; Wednesday, Mrs. Jesse Miller was taken to White Cross Hospital and returned home Saturday in the ambulance.

Unknown Soldier Never Unattended

WASHINGTON (AP)—Never for a moment in 21 years—despite wars, storms, heat or cold—has America's Unknown Soldier of World War I been left unattended.

A 24-hour vigil has been kept at this tomb since 1937 as a sacred trust. Prior to that, from the entombment in 1921, an honor guard had mounted watch only in daytime.

The nation, for which this unidentified man gave his life, picks the best of its Army infantrymen for the signal honor of walking a lonely post in a cemetery with 97,000 dead.

Through the years, the routine has become rigid.

The cadence is 128 steps per minute. The sentry takes 21 steps from one end of the post to the other and pauses at each end. He carries a .30 caliber M-1 rifle with a chrome-plated bayonet. He wears Army dress uniform—blue in winter, tan tropical worsted in summer—and white gloves.

None of this routine will be changed when two more unknown servicemen are buried nearby on Friday.

None of the candidates can have any physical disability or disciplinary action on his record. A tomb guard must be between 5 feet 11 and 6 feet 2.

At least two months and perhaps five months of special training at Ft. Myer precedes assignment to the sentry post.

During periods that Arlington is open, guards are changed hourly. At night, and when the cemetery is closed, the shifts run two hours.

Hoak Shows Best Stuff Under Stress

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Hoak is always at his best when the pressure is on and this trait is beginning to make a difference again for Cincinnati's Redlegs.

For example, the Redlegs had sprayed a dozen hits around Crosley Field Tuesday night in the first nine innings of a game with Chicago's Cubs. But all they could earn was a 3-3 tie.

The Rhinelanders had punched out at least one hit in every inning but the eighth and still had trouble capitalizing on them.

But in the 10th, things improved. Dee Fondy started with a single. George Crowe hit what looked like an easy little nubber to first-sacker Paul Smith. He muffed it and threw wildly to second base. Results: Redlegs on second and third.

The Cubs elected to walk Ed Bailey to fill the bases and pitch to Hoak.

Joe Nuxhall doled out only one hit in three relief innings and Hal Jeffcoat picked up the victory after a one-hit performance in the 10th. Brooks Lawrence started.

Carter Still Alive In Pin Tourney

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Don Carter of St. Louis made "the greatest pressure strike I've ever had to make," to avoid eviction from the American Bowling Congress Masters tourney Tuesday.

Carter's foe in what was probably the most exciting duel in three days of Masters match play was his St. Louis teammate, Pat Patterson who had banged out games of 224, 204, 246 and 192.

Carter began with 223, 222 and 206. After the ninth frame of the last game, he needed three strikes in the last frame for a 215 game and a rolloff. He got the turkey, won the rolloff.

Warren 'Wonder' Spahn Still Working His Magic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren (The Wonder) Spahn, working his usual magic over the St. Louis Cardinals, is a third of the way home today in his run for a record 20-victory season. And the National League schedule is less than a quarter over.

After being sidetracked by home runs in his last two starts, the 37-year-old southpaw gained his seventh victory of the season Tuesday night on a pinch-hit, two-out, ninth inning homer by Joe Adcock as the Milwaukee Braves junked Sam Jones' two-hit shutout for a 3-2 decision over the Cards.

Spahn, now 7-1, can set a major league record for left-handers by bagging his ninth 20-victory season. He now shares the record with former American Leaguer Bob (Lefty) Grove.

The Braves closed within a game of first-place San Francisco, beaten 5-1 at Philadelphia, while third - place Pittsburgh moved within four games of the top with a 5-3 victory over Los Angeles. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Kansas City snapped Bob Turley's unbeaten string at seven games and jumped into second place, 8½ bames behind New York, by belting the Yankees 7-3. Detroit defeated Boston 3-2, the Chicago White Sox trimmed Washington 7-3 and Cleveland beat Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings.

Rip Repulski slammed a three-run homer in the first for the Phils against losing Giant starter Stu Miller and Jack Sanford eased home while allowing 10 hits for a 4-4 record.

A bases-loaded single by Don Hoak gave the Redlegs an unearned, tie-breaking run in the 10th against reliever Don Elston, now 5-2. Hal Jeffcoat won it in relief of Brooks Lawrence, who failed to finish for the seventh time in 10 starts. Home runs by Jerry Lynch and Frank Robinson gave the Redlegs a tie after the Cubs counted three in the fourth, two on Walt Moryn's homer.

The Pirates counted 10 hits—the first six for extra bases—while handing Don Drysdale his eighth defeat against two victories. Ron Kline won his sixth, but needed Ron Blackburn's relief help in the ninth.

Bob Cerv, who became a hefty hitter by shedding some weight, seems to have made Bob Turley his favorite target as the Kansas City Athletics make their bid to tip the scale against the New York Yankees this season.

The slugging outfielder, down to a trim 204 or so after sweating off about 10 pounds, crashed his second home run off the no-windup right-hander and drove in four runs as the band of ex-Yankees cracked the varsity 7-3.

Turley, whose season-opening string of shutout innings was junked at 19 by Cerv's home run as the A's lost 8-1 in New York May 2, had given up only six earned runs while completing each of his starts. He had a 7-0 record going into Tuesday night's game at Kansas City.

This time, he lasted only five innings, giving up six runs—three on Cerv's first-inning homer.

The victory hoisted the A's past Boston into second place behind the American League-leading Yankees. The Red Sox lost 3-2 at Detroit. Cleveland defeated Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 7-3.

In the National League, Philadelphia beat the San Francisco Giants 5-1 while second-place Milwaukee beat St. Louis 3-2 on Joe Adcock's pinch homer in the ninth. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 5-3.

A pair of unearned runs, on Frank Malzone's error, gave the Tigers the edge in the sixth. But Vito Valentinetti, recalled from the minors Saturday, had to strike out pinch hitter Gene Stephens after Bill Renna's RBI double in the ninth to save Paul Foytack's fourth victory. Ted Williams homered in the fourth. Tom Brewer was the loser.

A bases-loaded walk by relief pitcher Billy O'Dell handed the Orioles their sixth straight defeat after J. W. Porter's first homer of the year had given the Indians a 6-6 tie in the ninth. Hoyt Wilhelm won his first in relief.

Early Wynn (5-2) won his fourth in a row for the White Sox, but gave 10 hits and needed relief in the ninth. Four runs in the fourth, two scoring on an error and the other pair on Wynn's single, bagged it against loser Hal Griggs.

Tribe Wins Again in Late Inning

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians are back to that late inning—or extra inning—formula for winning ball games.

They did it again Tuesday night. This time they tied the score the hard way, then won it the easy way with a bases loaded walk in the 10th inning to defeat Baltimore 7-6.

Bragan then sent J. W. Porter up to bat for Maris, who hadn't even picked up the bat yet. Porter drilled one of O'Dell's servings well over the fence in left centerfield 400 feet away.

That tied the score 6-6 and sent the game into overtime.

In the 10th, Preson Ward got his fourth hit, a ground single to center. After two unsuccessful bunt attempts, Chico Carrasquel looped a single into short center and Ward hustled to third.

Russ Nixon went down swinging on three pitches. Billy Harrell, who had homered with a man aboard for Cleveland in the sixth, was intentionally walked, to load the bases.

O'Dell then fanned Dick Brown, also on three pitches.

O'Dell's control suddenly deserted him, and he tossed four straight wide pitches to Mickey Vernon and Ward strolled across with the winning tally.

Yellow Bud Downed In 5-1 Contest

River Oil of Chillicothe remained undefeated in the Circleville Independent Softball league by coming through with a 5-1 decision over Yellow Bud last night at Ted Lewis Park.

Farnham worked on the mound for River Oil, allowing five hits and fanning 12. Bill Cook hurled for Yellow Bud, giving up only seven hits and setting down one on third strikes.

River Oil scored early, getting three runs in the first frame. The winners then came back for two more in the third.

Yellow Bud's single marker came in the sixth when Britton unloaded a homerun. The only other extra base blows of the game were doubles by Francis and Kane of River Oil.

BROWN of Yellow Bud had two of the losers' hits as did Kane for the winners. Each team committed only one error.

In the other scheduled game of the evening Laurelville, failing to field a team due to high school graduation exercises, was forced to forfeit to Circleville Merchants.

Weather permitting, one game is scheduled tonight at the park. Circleville Merchants will tangle with General Electric at 8 p. m.

Hoak Shows Best Stuff Under Stress

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Hoak is always at his best when the pressure is on and this trait is beginning to make a difference again for Cincinnati's Redlegs.

For example, the Redlegs had sprayed a dozen hits around Crosley Field Tuesday night in the first nine innings of a game with Chicago's Cubs. But all they could earn was a 3-3 tie.

The Rhinelanders had punched out at least one hit in every inning but the eighth and still had trouble capitalizing on them.

But in the 10th, things improved. Dee Fondy started with a single. George Crowe hit what looked like an easy little nubber to first-sacker Paul Smith. He muffed it and threw wildly to second base. Results: Redlegs on second and third.

A mistake. Hoak punched out a hard single and the Reds had a 4-3 victory.

Joe Nuxhall doled out only one hit in three relief innings and Hal Jeffcoat picked up the victory after a one-hit performance in the 10th. Brooks Lawrence started.

Carter Still Alive In Pin Tourney

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Don Carter of St. Louis made "the greatest pressure strike I've ever had to make," to avoid eviction from the American Bowling Congress Masters tourney Tuesday.

Carter's foe in what was probably the most exciting duel in three days of Masters match play was his St. Louis teammate, Pat Patterson who had banged out games of 224, 204, 246 and 192.

Carter began with 223, 222 and 206. After the ninth frame of the last game, he needed three strikes in the last frame for a 215 game and a rolloff. He got the turkey, won the rolloff.

Warren 'Wonder' Spahn Still Working His Magic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren (The Wonder) Spahn, working his usual magic over the St. Louis Cardinals, is a third of the way home today in his run for a record 20-victory season. And the National League schedule is less than a quarter over.

After being sidetracked by home runs in his last two starts, the 37-year-old southpaw gained his seventh victory of the season Tuesday night on a pinch-hit, two-out, ninth inning homer by Joe Adcock as the Milwaukee Braves junked Sam Jones' two-hit shutout for a 3-2 decision over the Cards.

Spahn, now 7-1, can set a major league record for left-handers by bagging his ninth 20-victory season. He now shares the record with former American Leaguer Bob (Lefty) Grove.

The Braves closed within a game of first-place San Francisco, beaten 5-1 at Philadelphia, while third - place Pittsburgh moved within four games of the top with a 5-3 victory over Los Angeles. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Kansas City snapped Bob Turley's unbeaten string at seven games and jumped into second place, 8½ bames behind New York, by belting the Yankees 7-3. Detroit defeated Boston 3-2, the Chicago White Sox trimmed Washington 7-3 and Cleveland beat Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings.

Rip Repulski slammed a three-run homer in the first for the Phils against losing Giant starter Stu Miller and Jack Sanford eased home while allowing 10 hits for a 4-4 record.

A bases-loaded single by Don Hoak gave the Redlegs an unearned, tie-breaking run in the 10th against reliever Don Elston, now 5-2. Hal Jeffcoat won it in relief of Brooks Lawrence, who failed to finish for the seventh time in 10 starts. Home runs by Jerry Lynch and Frank Robinson gave the Redlegs a tie after the Cubs counted three in the fourth, two on Walt Moryn's homer.

The Pirates counted 10 hits—the first six for extra bases—while handing Don Drysdale his eighth defeat against two victories. Ron Kline won his sixth, but needed Ron Blackburn's relief help in the ninth.

Bob Cerv, who became a hefty hitter by shedding some weight, seems to have made Bob Turley his favorite target as the Kansas City Athletics make their bid to tip the scale against the New York Yankees this season.

The slugging outfielder, down to a trim 204 or so after sweating off about 10 pounds, crashed his second home run off the no-windup right-hander and drove in four runs as the band of ex-Yankees cracked the varsity 7-3.

Turley, whose season-opening string of shutout innings was junked at 19 by Cerv's home run as the A's lost 8-1 in New York May 2, had given up only six earned runs while completing each of his starts. He had a 7-0 record going into Tuesday night's game at Kansas City.

This time, he lasted only five innings, giving up six runs—three on Cerv's first-inning homer.

The victory hoisted the A's past Boston into second place behind the American League Yankees. The Red Sox lost 3-2 at Detroit. Cleveland defeated Baltimore 7-6 in 10 innings and the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 7-3.

In the National League, Philadelphia beat the San Francisco Giants 5-1 while second-place Milwaukee beat St. Louis 3-2 on Joe Adcock's pinch homer in the ninth. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 5-3.

A pair of unearned runs, on Frank Malzone's error, gave the Tigers the edge in the sixth. But Vito Valentinetti, recalled from the minors Saturday, had to strike out pinch hitter Gene Stephens after Bill Renna's RBI double in the ninth to save Paul Foytack's fourth victory. Ted Williams homered in the fourth. Tom Brewer was the loser.

A bases-loaded walk by relief pitcher Billy O'Dell handed the Orioles their sixth straight defeat after J. W. Porter's first homer of the year had given the Indians a 6-6 tie in the ninth. Hoyt Wilhelm won his first in relief.

Early Wynn (5-2) won his fourth in a row for the White Sox, but gave 10 hits and needed relief in the ninth. Four runs in the fourth, two scoring on an error and the other pair on Wynn's single, bagged it against loser Hal Griggs.

Tribe Wins Again in Late Inning

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians are back to that late inning—or extra inning—formula for winning ball games.

They did it again Tuesday night. This time they tied the score the hard way, then won it the easy way with a bases loaded walk in the 10th inning to defeat Baltimore 7-6.

Bragan then sent J. W. Porter up to bat for Maris, who hadn't even picked up the bat yet. Porter drilled one of O'Dell's servings well over the fence in left centerfield 400 feet away.

That tied the score 6-6 and sent the game into overtime.

In the 10th, Preson Ward got his fourth hit, a ground single to center. After two unsuccessful bunt attempts, Chico Carrasquel looped a single into short center and Ward hustled to third.

Russ Nixon went down swinging on three pitches. Billy Harrell, who had homered with a man aboard for Cleveland in the sixth, was intentionally walked, to load the bases.

O'Dell then fanned Dick Brown, also on three pitches.

O'Dell's control suddenly deserted him, and he tossed four straight wide pitches to Mickey Vernon and Ward strolled across with the winning tally.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I've read your column (May 7) where the 14-year-old boy, G.R., defends necking in his age group. I am a girl 17, and I couldn't disagree with him more.

Some of today's teen-agers are a bit boobish, but you can't judge all by some of them. G.R. claims that we are maturing faster than the teen-agers of yesteryear. This may be, but I don't think we are mature enough to start dating at age 13. A girl that age may be a little too curious for her own good; and the same holds true of the boy; and that's how they get in trouble.

G.R. admits necking with his girl friend—"but we don't make a spectacle of ourselves," he claims. How can they avoid being a spectacle? By sneaking off to be alone, out of sight? That only makes things look worse.

I think a girl shouldn't start dating until she is at least 15. By then she should have had time to consider the kind of companion she'd like to be. If a girl starts dating at 14, it should be a double date or group date, and stay that way all evening.

Some girls think the only way they can hold a boy is by necking. They couldn't be farther from the truth! Once a girl starts necking sessions with a boy she dates, she's had it! Sure, she'll more than likely get quite a few dates, but they all will end the same way.

Don't get me wrong; I don't object to dating different boys; in fact I do. I've had double dates and single dates, but I prefer double dating. Sooner or later you run out of words on a single date, but with two or three couples present the conversation is always going and everyone has a wonderful time. There is more to dating than just necking.

Why try to get old fast? In a normal life span you are going to be old for many more years than you were young. I'd appreciate your publishing this, if only to prove that G.R. doesn't speak for all teen-agers.

K.M.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: May I file my opinion of G.R.? Somebody has failed at raising that boy up. He is merely looking for something new. When parking and necking, a boy and girl are walking on the devil's ground. Each time they go a little farther, until their lives are ruined.

I am a boy 17, considered (I believe) a leader of my fellow youth; that is why I know their feelings. They bring their problems to me and I always listen—and it makes them feel good if I agree with their views. Of course if I disagree I can't force it down their throat. I get it across casually, and they accept it more readily.

Teen-agers should be watched over; they still need it. But today's adults don't know how to get across to young minds. Teen-agers have fresh active minds, and if challenged they lash back. If parents would talk to them in adult vein, they'd stand a better chance of being heard. If this doesn't work, it's time for a little strapping, to get them in a responsive mood (starting at an early age).

Two more points: 1. Newspaper publicity given teen-agers in big bold type is damaging. The accent is always bad. Searching the inside pages with a magnifying glass, you might find a two-line item about something good that youth has done. Makes it seem almost silly to do anything good any more.

2. Rock-and-roll is fading. Good music is coming around; so why doesn't our adult population clam up and stop noticing rock-and-roll? Stop feeding it with attention; let it die on its feet.

E.C.

DEAR SCRIBES: Thanks for your contributions. They ought to give G.R. food for thought and jar his complacency a bit — which should be good for him.

Teen-agers generally would be better off if they had real work to do, and less attention paid them, as a species. Adolescent roughnecks mostly lack an adequate purpose in life, as individuals, groups or gangs. So they get involved in deviltry—because Satan finds mischief for idle hands; a fact that our forefathers kept in mind. Maybe a judicious revival of child labor would help the situation. Who knows?

M.H.

4 of Dionne Quints Observe Birthday

MONTREAL (AP) — The four surviving Dionne quintuplets are 24 today but any plans for birthday celebrations are their secret.

The girls — Annette, Cecile, Yvonne and Marie—all live in the Montreal area. But efforts to reach them or persons close to them for information about their birthday plans have met with no success.

This is the girls' fourth birthday without Emilie, frailest of the five, who died Aug. 6, 1954, during an epileptic seizure.

28 Blood Donors Seek To Aid Ailing Boy

When doctors decided that Joseph Gee needed the operation, a call went out for blood donors with type "A" positive blood. More than 40 persons responded, but doctors said only 28 would be needed for the operation.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I've read your column (May 7) where the 14-year-old boy, G.R., defends necking in his age group. I am a girl 17, and I couldn't disagree with him more.

Some of today's teen-agers are a bit boobish, but you can't judge all by some of them. G.R. claims that we are maturing faster than the teen-agers of yesteryear. This may be, but I don't think we are mature enough to start dating at age 13. A girl that age may be a little too curious for her own good; and the same holds true of the boy; and that's how they get in trouble.

G.R. admits necking with his girl friend—"but we don't make a spectacle of ourselves," he claims. How can they avoid being a spectacle? By sneaking off to be alone, out of sight? That only makes things look worse.

I think a girl shouldn't start dating until she is at least 15. By then she should have had time to consider the kind of companion she'd like to be. If a girl starts dating at 14, it should be a double date or group date, and stay that way all evening.

Some girls think the only way they can hold a boy is by necking. They couldn't be farther from the truth! Once a girl starts necking sessions with a boy she dates, she's had it! Sure, she'll more than likely get quite a few dates, but they all will end the same way.

Don't get me wrong; I don't object to dating different boys; in fact I do. I've had double dates and single dates, but I prefer double dating. Sooner or later you run out of words on a single date, but with two or three couples present the conversation is always going and everyone has a wonderful time. There is more to dating than just necking.

Why try to get old fast? In a normal life span you are going to be old for many more years than you were young. I'd appreciate your publishing this, if only to prove that G.R. doesn't speak for all teen-agers.

K.M.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: May I file my opinion of G.R.? Somebody has failed at raising that boy up. He is merely looking for something new. When parking and necking, a boy and girl are walking on the devil's ground. Each time they go a little farther, until their lives are ruined.

I am a boy 17, considered (I believe) a leader of my fellow youth; that is why I know their feelings. They bring their problems to me and I always listen—and it makes them feel good if I agree with their views. Of course if I disagree I can't force it down their throat. I get it across casually, and they accept it more readily.

Teen-agers should be watched over; they still need it. But today's adults don't know how to get across to young minds. Teen-agers have fresh active minds, and if challenged they lash back. If parents would talk to them in adult vein, they'd stand a better chance of being heard. If this doesn't work, it's time for a little strapping, to get them in a responsive mood (starting at an early age).

Two more points: 1. Newspaper publicity given teen-agers in big bold type is damaging. The accent is always bad. Searching the inside pages with a magnifying glass, you might find a two-line item about something good that youth has done. Makes it seem almost silly to do anything good any more.

2. Rock-and-roll is fading. Good music is coming around; so why doesn't our adult population clam up and stop noticing rock-and-roll? Stop feeding it with attention; let it die on its feet.

E.C.

DEAR SCRIBES: Thanks for your contributions. They ought to give G.R. food for thought and jar his complacency a bit — which should be good for him.

Teen-agers generally would be better off if they had real work to do, and less attention paid them, as a species. Adolescent roughnecks mostly lack an adequate purpose in life, as individuals, groups or gangs. So they get involved in deviltry—because Satan finds mischief for idle hands; a fact that our forefathers kept in mind. Maybe a judicious revival of child labor would help the situation. Who knows?

M.H.

4 of Dionne Quints Observe Birthday

MONTREAL (AP) — The four surviving Dionne quintuplets are 24 today but any plans for birthday celebrations are their secret.

The girls — Annette, Cecile, Yvonne and Marie—all live in the Montreal area. But efforts to reach them or persons close to them for information about their birthday plans have met with no success.

This is the girls' fourth birthday without Emilie, frailest of the five, who died Aug. 6, 1954, during an epileptic seizure.

When doctors decided that Joseph Gee needed the operation, a call went out for blood donors with type "A" positive blood. More than 40 persons responded, but doctors said only 28 would be needed for the operation.

Press Club Gives Politicos Sharp Needle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Politicians and government officials received their annual ribbing by member of the Press Club of Ohio Tuesday night in the club's Gridiron show.

State Rep. John M. Ashbrook (R-Licking), national president of the Young Republican Clubs, walked off with "top honors" when he was given the "boner award" for a mistake which cost him a place on the May 6 primary ballot.

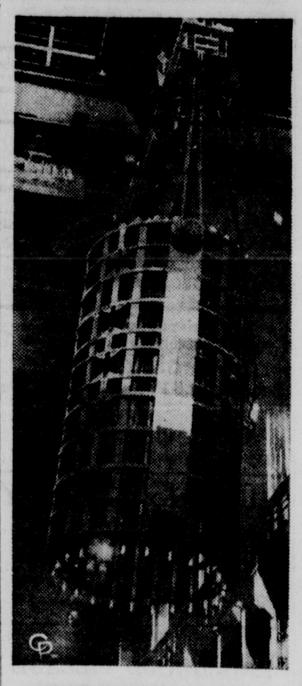

Ashbrook, publisher of the weekly Johnstown Independent, was a candidate for renomination for a second term in the Ohio House. But he made a technical error on his nominating petitions and was ruled off the ballot. However, a sweeping write-in vote got him renominated anyway.

Almost 400 men attended the stag dinner and show in the Deshler Hilton Hotel ballroom while 125 women club members, wives of members and their female friends dined in the Victorian room and enjoyed the show via closed circuit television.

Last year DiSalle was "buried" after his 1956 defeat by Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill, but Tuesday night the Toledoan was resurrected to haunt O'Neill again.

In the skits, the newsmen also poked fun at O'Neill by satirizing his primary contest with "standby" candidate Charles P. Taft, who unsuccessfully ran for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, and the governor's trip to the Rose Bowl football game last Jan. 1.

INDUSTRIAL 'BIRD CAGE'—A 35-ton enclosure is lifted in the General Electric's large steam turbine-generator plant in Schenectady, N.Y. The huge steel "bird cage," which is more than 26 feet long and with a diameter of about ten feet, is actually the inner enclosure portion of an electric power producing generator.

Press Club Gives Politicos Sharp Needle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Politicians and government officials received their annual ribbing by member of the Press Club of Ohio Tuesday night in the club's Gridiron show.

State Rep. John M. Ashbrook (R-Licking), national president of the Young Republican Clubs, walked off with "top honors" when he was given the "boner award" for a mistake which cost him a place on the May 6 primary ballot.

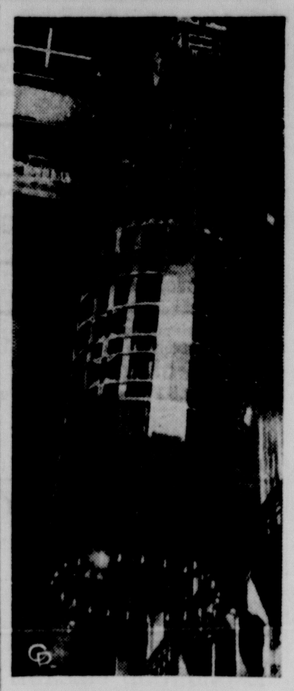

Ashbrook, publisher of the weekly Johnstown Independent, was a candidate for renomination for a second term in the Ohio House. But he made a technical error on his nominating petitions and was ruled off the ballot. However, a sweeping write-in vote got him renominated anyway.

Almost 400 men attended the stag dinner and show in the Deshler Hilton Hotel ballroom while 125 women club members, wives of members and their female friends dined in the Victorian room and enjoyed the show via closed circuit television.

The show, which included 29 skits and songs, featured the "unburying" of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael DiSalle.

Last year DiSalle was "buried" after his 1956 defeat by Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill, but Tuesday night the Toledoan was resurrected to haunt O'Neill again.

In the skits, the newsmen also poked fun at O'Neill by satirizing his primary contest with "standby" candidate Charles P. Taft, who unsuccessfully ran for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, and the governor's trip to the Rose Bowl football game last Jan. 1.

INDUSTRIAL 'BIRD CAGE'—A 35-ton enclosure is lifted in the General Electric's large steam turbine-generator plant in Schenectady, N.Y. The huge steel "bird cage," which is more than 26 feet long and with a diameter of about ten feet, is actually the inner enclosure portion of an electric power producing generator.

Fostoria Man Gets Sentence for Slaying

TIFFIN (AP) — York Lindsay Jr., 35, of Fostoria, has been sentenced to 1-20 years in Ohio Penitentiary for the fatal shooting of his uncle, Hamp Parker, during an argument last April.

Common Pleas Judge Ralph Sugrue passed sentence when Lindsay changed his plea to guilty after the charge was reduced from second degree murder to first degree manslaughter.

Highway Skid Areas Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio Department of Highways workers will skid around on state roads this summer so they can make them safer.

Traffic and the weather in time smooth and polish concrete roads, making them slick in rain.

Wheels of a trailer skid when special brakes are applied as a truck pulls the device over the road. Friction between the trailer tires and the road is measured and recorded.

Only 2 Nations Accept Nuclear Test Invite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says two nations out of 14 invited have so far accepted bids to witness a nuclear test in the Pacific this summer.

Three out of the 14 have rejected invitations. The favorable replies came from Belgium and Sweden; the rejections from the Soviet Union, Communist Czechoslovakia and India. Replies from nine are still being awaited.

New! B.F.Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Silvertown

Here's how it works

A patented sealant surrounds a nail as it enters the tire body . . . grips it in an airtight vise. Then, when the nail is removed, the sealant follows it into the hole, making a permanent repair. There's never any loss of air!

I'm a physician. I depend on my car. Sure, my motor may go bad on me. But my LIFE-SAVERS? Never.

And no wonder! LIFE-SAVER Silvertowns shrug off road punches, give many more miles of smoother, safer driving; look better, and—most important — they seal punctures permanently!

My husband says I'd go crazy if I tried to fix a flat. And he's right. But we don't have to worry about flats with LIFE-SAVERS on our car.

Braves Pay Big Bundle for Iowa Rookie

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves called at an Iowa farm Tuesday, apparently paid out a bundle of cash and signed Denny Menke, one of the brightest prospects to come out of the Hawkeye state since Bob Feller left the corn country for the major leagues.

A pitcher and an infielder, the 17-year-old Menke will report Thursday to the world champions' Three-I League farm club at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

There were only hints as to the size of the bonus that lured Menke into the Braves' camp. According to a rigidly enforced policy, Milwaukee officials refused to discuss terms.

But before he signed at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Menke of Bancroft, Iowa, Denny said he had no favorite, but would sign with the club that presented "the best combination of opportunity and money."

Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, one of the teams in the bidding, had estimated that the price might go as high as $100,000.

While Menke built his prep reputation on both the mound and in the infield, Milwaukee scout Eddie Dancisak, who got Menke's name on a contract, indicated he will be groomed for duty as a shortstop.

Nearly every major league team was interested in the boy, but bidding was not official until he graduated last Sunday.

Scanlon Scheduled For Chicago Bout

Tabbed the best lightweight prospect on the scene, Scanlon is undefeated in 28 bouts. He risks the record in his national TV debut in Chicago Stadium against the hometown's Bobby Rogers.

Scanlon, who started boxing in Buffalo, N. Y., six years ago and won 15 of 16 amateur fights, has scored 10 knockouts in 27 victories.

Rogers, also 22, took up boxing while with the 12th Air Force in 1952, and has registered 7 knockouts in 15 victories. He has lost 4.

OSU Star Bruised By Pitched Ball

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — Former Ohio State University athlete Frank Howard, hit in the head by a pitched baseball, was released Tuesday from Mercy Hospital here. Attendants said he did not have a concussion as first feared.

At Ohio State, the husky Howard starred in basketball and baseball.

Somebody Steals Champ's Pennant

MILWAUKEE (AP)—While the Milwaukee Braves were concentrating on beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 Tuesday night, someone stole the club's World Series championship pennant from the flag pole.

The 37 x 15 foot blue and white banner was flying from a 59-foot temporary flag pole just behind the left field fence. Someone got to the pole, ran the flag down and quietly walked off with it.

Rigney Believes New Home Helps Boost Giants' Power

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Among the wonderful things that have happened to the San Francisco Giants this season was not having to play in the Polo Grounds, their former home in New York.

That is what Manager Billy Rigney said today as he tried to explain why the surprising Giants were leading the National League.

"Two of our biggest surprises," he said, "have been Orlando Cepeda and Jim Davenport, our rookie first and third basemen. Another revelation has been the hitting of Daryl Spencer, our shortstop. Cepeda and Spencer each has hit 12 home runs so far.

"I'm sure neither would have done nearly as well had the Giants still been in the Polo Grounds. Those short fences proved a handicap to Spencer and I feel they would have been just as much of a handicap to Cepeda. Orlando has tremendous power—as much as anybody on the club—but he is not a pull hitter. His power is to left center and right center. He's hit several long 400-foot homers in San Francisco but they would only have been long outs in the Polo Grounds. Such things tend to discourage young ballplayers.

"It took Spencer two years to find that out," Rigney added, "and then he still wasn't convinced. He hit a few home runs his first year with the Giants and he got to pulling every ball. I had a tough job convincing him that he'd never amount to a great deal as a hitter unless he learned to hit to the opposite field. He finally began to see the light last year—at least I thought he did—but toward the end of the season, he was back trying to pull again.

"Any young player, unless he's a dead pull hitter, faces a handicap at the Polo Grounds. He takes one look at the short fences and tries to take dead aim with every swing. All he gets for his efforts, however, are long fly ball outs. Look at Willie Mays. How many homers did he hit at the Polo Grounds? Most of his homers were hit on the road."

Industrials Give Lift to Stock Mart

NEW YORK (AP)—Industrials stepped forward, giving the stock market a slight rise early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Steels, oils, aircrafts and missile-related stocks did well. Rails and utilities showed little movement. Leading stocks rose from fractions to about a point generally.

The new included President Eisenhower's statement he believes the recession has largely spent itself, a report from the Federal Reserve Board that it sees signs of a leveling off in unemployment and an order for a speedup in missile and antisubmarine warfare programs by the House Appropriations Committee.

Republic Aviation was an early standout, rising around 2 points. Electronics shares related to the missile program also did well. Zenith was up more than 2 and Radio Corp. about a point. Raytheon was up a good fraction, as rumors were of another contract to the company.

Kennecott was up about a point. Texas Co., Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil rose fractionally. Sunray preferred "A" kept a fractional advance. It opened at 25, up ¼.

Ike Again Voices Optimism on Slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said again today what he has indicated before — he believes the recession has largely spent itself. The nation is weathering it well, he told a news conference at which he explained his stand against tax cuts.

Eisenhower said the current economic situation does not warrant any reductions that could create further deficit spending.

Though he said he thinks the recession has largely spent its force, the President declined to predict when there will be a business upturn and full employment again. He said he is no prophet.

The first question to Eisenhower was a request that he explain why he came out earlier this week against any general tax cut—any, as the reporter put it, anti-recession reduction.

Bristling a bit, Eisenhower said it looked to him as though the newsman was asking a loaded question. The President said he is not sure that any tax cut could be pictured as an anti-recession move.

AS HE HAS done many times in the past, the President said the tax situation has been a matter for careful and intense study. And, he went on, he finally decided that as of now the economic situation does not warrant any reductions beyond already proposed relief for small business.

Eisenhower also said he deplores any idea of the government attempting to control wages and prices in time of peace.

He renewed his appeal to business and labor leaders to keep wages and prices from spiraling dangerously.

Replying to a question, Eisenhower said he sees a partial contradiction between his approval of pay increases for government workers and his advocacy that the wage line in private business be held generally. He added that this can't be helped.

He said the pay hikes for postal workers, provided in a bill he signed Tuesday, were more liberal in some cases than he had recommended and not adequate in other cases.

As for the administration's call for salary increases for people in the armed forces, he has been plugging for that for a long time, Eisenhower said.
